FAIRFAX FIREHOUSE RAZED

A tractor's claw grips a wall of the old Fairfax firehouse as workmen demolish the aging structure, replaced by a new facility built nearby. The old firehouse, built in 1926, was razed yesterday. Construction materials and other fixtures salvaged from it will be auctioned at noon Nov. 10 on the site, along with surplus town equipment, unclaimed property accumulated by the police department, and other items. Energy Czar Sawhill Out; Ford Shuffles Other Jobs

Gasoline Surtax Dispute Seen As Shakeup Factor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John C. Sawhill, who was at odds with the White House over a proposed gasoline tax surcharge, has resigned as federal energy administrator, President Ford announced today.

Ford told reporters at the White House that Sawhill would be succeeded by Andrew E. Gibson, a former assistant secretary of commerce for maritime affairs.

Sawhill, 38, took over as head of the Federal Energy Administration in June, replacing William E. Simon, who became Secretary of the Treasury.

Ford said that Sawhill will be offered a "first rate" position in government.

He denied that Sawhill was "dumped" but said that Secretary of Interior Rogers C. B. Morton had the right to make his own appointments as overall administration energy coordinator. In that respect, Ford said he supported Morton.

The President also announced several other changes within the administration's energy-related areas. They included:

Atomic Energy Commission chief Dixy Lee Ray to be assistant secretary of state for oceans and international environmental matters.

Dr. Robert C. Seamans to be head of the Energy Research and Development Administration, which replaces the abolished Atomic Energy Commission in two months. The new agency would become the top federal agency in the field of energy development. Seamans is a former Air Force secretary and also served as an associate administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Former astronaut William Anders, presently an AEC commissioner, will head the new Atomic Energy Regulatory Commission.

Although Sawhill has had several offers of jobs outside government, an aide said he promised a congressional committee recently that he would not go into an oil industry job if he left the FEA.

Gibson, 52, resigned his Commerce job in January after serving for four years to take a position with Interstate Oil Transport Co., of Philadelphia. He is no longer with Interstate.

Gibson was senior vice president of cargo for the Grace Lines, a shipping company based in New York, when he was named to the Commerce post. He was assistant comptroller of the Navy's Military Sea Transport Service in the early 1950's.

Sawhill recently advocated a gasoline tax surcharge to discourage consumption and bring demand more in line with supply. The idea was squashed by the White House and rumors began that Sawhill was on his way out.

Sawhill's plans were not immediately known. Sources said that Sawhill has been offered $200,000 to return to private industry and had also been offered university teaching posts.

Sources close to Sawhill said the resignation was triggered by the recent appointment of Interior Secretary Morton as the administration's overall energy coordinator.

Sawhill was caught between the nation's pressing energy needs on one hand and environ-

Nixon's Surgery Said Successful

LONG BEACH (UPI) — Former President Richard M. Nixon underwent successful surgery today to block the spread of blood clots which had threatened his life.

Nixon's doctors said the surgery was "uneventful" and the 61-year-old former President's condition was "stable" following the operation which lasted a little more than one hour.

Nixon's personal physician, Dr. John C. Lungren, ordered the surgery late last night when new tests disclosed a large clot in Nixon's left hip, above those previously discovered in the left leg. The new clot was closer to an artery which leads directly to the heart.

Nixon's wife, Pat, and his secretary, Rosemary Woods, arrived at the hospital a few hours before the operation. Lungren said he spoke to Mrs. Nixon early today.

Lungren, who characterized the operation as a "success," said the five-man surgical team inserted a permanent plastic clip across the iliac vein in the left groin area.

The operation took about one hour and was "an uneventful procedure," according to the head of the team, Dr. Eldon B. Hickman.

"Mr. Nixon is doing well. He is in stable condition in his room now, undergoing normal post operative care and is somewhat sleepy," Hickman said.

"We placed what is known as a mild clip to partially occlude but not completely occlude the vessel.

"We could readily palpate (feel) the clot. We anticipate the usual post operative recovery problems."

Hickman said they would include special diets, intravenous administration of medicine and anticoagulants.

Hickman said doctors "do not anticipate any more surgery."

In addition to Hickman and Lungren, two assistant surgeons and one anaesthesiologist took part in the operation.

Lungren said Nixon would have to wear a plastic support on the lower portion of his left leg and would remain in the hospital for about one week and then be under postoperative care at his San Clemente home for another four to six weeks.

The operation was performed on the first floor of the hospital and then Nixon was returned to his room in the new intensive care unit on the seventh floor.

Lungren made a sudden decision last night to operate after tests showed "a fresh and active clot" in the left leg.

Hickman said the clots in the thigh will either dissolve eventually or Nixon will develop alternative circulation routes.

In any event, he indicated, the clip should "permanently" solve the threat of clots breaking loose and reaching the heart and lungs.

A hospital spokesman said additional tests will be performed on Nixon's leg later this week. The tests, similar to the ones which discovered the new clot, involve removing blood, mixing it with radioactive substances and then replacing it in Nixon's veins and monitoring it with a Geiger counter to detect any new clotting.

Ford Prepared To Accept Oil Limits If Other Measures Fail

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Refusing to use the word recession, President Ford said today he will be "open to suggestions" for more stringent anti-inflation and energy saving measures — including a ceiling on oil imports —if his own economic remedies fail.

In an impromptu, untelevised news conference, the President also announced a shakeup among his high-level energy advisers, expressed continuing support for his nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president and hinted he may sign a bill increasing GI benefits which he previously described as inflationary.

Ford, planning to campaign in his former Michigan congressional district later in the day, continued to hammer at the Democrats as the "spenders" in government.

Calling himself "a saver," he added he was reviewing more than 100 options that could prune between $5.4 billion and $7.5 billion from the federal budget in the current 1975 fiscal year.

Ford said that if Congress approves many of the provisions in his 31-point program to prevent a further economic slump, "I am confident it will work."

"But if it doesn't," he added, "I will be open to suggestions." He indicated that included a ceiling on oil imports if "necessary."

Although at least three of his top economic advisers have described the current situation as a recession, Ford hedged on his own definition.

"Whether it is a recession or not a recession is immaterial," he said. "We really don't care what the name is. We want solutions."

At the news conference, his fourth since becoming president and the first not to be televised, Ford also:

Announced the resignation of John C. Sawhill as federal energy administrator and a shakeup of the high-level energy team including the appointment of Atomic Energy Commission chairman Dixy Lee Ray to be assistant secretary of state for oceans and international environmental matters.

Said he believes Nelson A. Rockefeller will be confirmed as vice president and added that "I strongly support him" for the No. 2 position in the Weather Satellite Launch Off Again

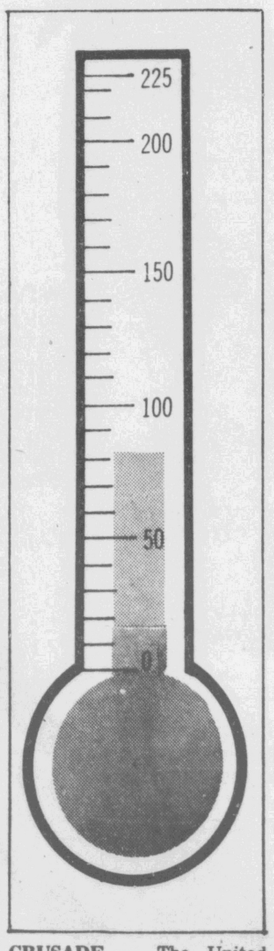
VANDENBERG AFB, Calif. (UPI) — Launching of the weather satellite ITOS-G, scheduled for Thursday has been rescheduled for Nov. 13 because of problems with the electrical system, a Vandenberg Air Force Base official said today.

The ITOS-G, the nation's newest weather satellite, was originally scheduled to be launched today. An earlier electrical problem caused rescheduling of the launch for Thursday.



CRUSADE — The United Bay Area Crusade in Marin has reached the $81,726 mark toward its $225,000 goal in the county. In all five counties, it has raised $8,713,000 toward $21 million sought by Nov. 21.

Commerce Index Hits Record Low

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Commerce Department said today the index of leading economic indicators suffered its worst plunge in 23 years last month.

"The index seems to be delivering a message, a signal that bad times are ahead," a department economist said.

The index, which measures the progress of eight sectors of the American economy ranging from unemployment to stock market prices, dropped 2.5 per cent from August to September. It was the sharpest monthly plunge since 2.9 per cent in June, 1951.

The September index showed that unemployment increased, manufacturers' orders for appliances and other durable goods declined, stock prices and building permits fell and the prices for industrial materials were lower.

In addition, manufactuers placed orders for new equipment which could not be delivered and the ratio of prices to labor costs increased.

For the past 18 months, tte indicators have not been reliable because of inflation distortion. But the depth of the September decline more than offset any distortion from inflation, a department economist said.

Assistant Commerce Secretary James L. Pate said the index "presents a mixed picture of moderating inflationary forces and sluggish economic activity."

He said the September decline was largely due to the falling stock market in September but the market recovered in October.

Larkspur Officials Oppose Shakeup In Mail Delivery

Caught unaware of proposed changes in the city's mail delivery system, Larkspur officials today criticized United States Postal Service officials for "keeping us in the dark about a decision that could affect our citizens."

"We strongly feel that the post office shouldn't make a unilateral decision regarding the city post office," Mayor Joan L. Sestak told the Independent-Journal today. "I think we all want to have an efficiently-run service, but we should be told about a proposal such as this."

At issue is a plan to move mail carriers that now work out of the Larkspur office to the Corte Madera office. The carriers would cover the same delivery routes, but would start from Corte Madera.

The change would relieve overcrowded conditions at the Larkspur office, but would not affect service to city residents, according to sectional center postmaster Hugh Cassidy.

Other services, such as post office boxes, money orders, stamps, mail collection, special delivery pickups, insurance, and large package handling would continue at the Larkspur office. "In fact," Cassidy said, "If you didn't read about the change in the I-J, you wouldn't know there had been any change at all."

Peter Hagen, a representative of Larkspur postal clerks, said that certified and registered mail delivery would be slower under the new proposal because of additional handling that would be necessary. He also said that some clerks would be transferred from the Larkspur office — "they could be sent anywhere," Hagen said.

Cassidy said all these statements were "absolutely incorrect." "There will be no deterioration of mail service — just more room in the Corte Madera office," he said.

According to Cassidy, "Patrons would still deal with the Larkspur office. If they want to pick up a registered letter or something they would do it at Larkspur. The only exception would be if one wanted to talk with the mail carrier — you'd call Corte Madera for that."

At most, one or two distribution clerks would be transferred from Larkspur, and these would be sent to Corte Madera, he said.

A decision on the plan — to be made by Cassidy — will come in about four weeks. District postal service officials have approved the change if Cassidy decdes he wants to go ahead with it.

City councilmen and carriers' representatives said they objected to not being informed of the plan until this late date. Mrs. Sestak said she learned of it only Saturday at the Larkspur Town Meeting.

She said the council will receive a report from city manager Harlan Barry tonight at 7:30 p.m. before going into closed session to interview applicants for the city planning commission.

Cassidy said that the city wasn't notified because "the idea is still in the planning stage." The proposal wouldn't go into effect at least until February, he said.

The Moon Will Be Ghostly Blue When Goblins Come To Play

The haunting moon will look down on strange and fearsome sights as Marin prepares to observe All Hallows Eve on Thursday.

Illuminated only by its ghostly light, evil witches, gruesome goblins, werewolves and a variety of ghouls will prowl the streets and lanes.

It will be a time when ghost stories are more spine-tingling and when darkened old houses take on a sinister, watching look.

The ancient holiday, which has its roots in early Druid rites, will be lit this year by what is known in legend as a "blue moon" — the second full moon within a single calendar month. The phenomenon occurs once every four years and gave rise to the saying, "once in a blue moon."

While Halloween has been quiet in recent years, most Marin law enforcement agencies will put extra men on duty Thursday night to patrol against vandalism.

Throughout Marin many youngsters will go trick-or-treating for the United Nations Children's Fund which this year, for the first time in its 28-year history, has declared a state of worldwide emergency.

Five million children in Africa, Asia and Latin America are now threatened with serious malnutrition — or even starvation — because of droughts, food, fuel and fertilizer shortages, according to UNICEF officials.

Various organizations have issued their annual warnings for the little folk who will be celebrating what for many is their favorite holiday of the year.

Parents are urged to make sure that their trick-or-treaters' costumes and bags are safe and flameproof. And youngsters are warned to make their Halloween rounds with other children, carry flashlights, stay out of the street and keep out of strange houses.

With the number of real, live monsters increasing, parents should also make sure the treats their children receive are not adulterated with drugs or other dangerous objects, according to police. Last year two

Winds Bring Blue Skies

Brisk winds brought in spectacular blue skies to replace the threatening gray clouds of the weekend, promising fair weather tomorrow throughout Marin and Sonoma.

Sunny skies and temperatures in the 70s are expected tomorrow, according to the National Weather Service.

Before the brisk westerly winds — ranging from 15 to 30 miles per hour — blew Sunday's storm to the east, another .06 inch of rain fell on San Rafael yesterday afternoon, bringing the storm total to 1.54 inches.

The winds are expected to continue in parts of the Bay Area, and small craft warnings have been issued.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Pilot Sues Over Ovaltine

BOULDER, Colo. UPI) — Jim R. Sharp, a commercial pilot, says federal agents seized a jar of Ovaltine from his airplane Oct. 4 and insisted it was LSD.

Sharp

He also says the agents impounded the single-engine plane and told him if lab tests proved they were right about the LSD, he would be arrested.

Two weeks later, he said yesterday, the agents realized the jar contained nothing but the drink powder and told him he would not be prosecuted.

But Sharp says they also told him he would have to pay the two weeks storage charges on his Cessna 180.

Now he is suing for damages, inconvenience — and to get back his jar of Ovaltine, worth $1.08.

Arabs' Deaf Ear

DALLAS (UPI) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon says he has tried to convince Middle East oil-exporting nations that increasing petroleum prices is bad economics and bad politics, but they don't believe him.

Simon said the higher prices charged for imported oil gives oil-consuming nations incentive to become self sufficient.

"In my meetings with the Arab leaders, I found that their oil policies are not only bad politics but bad economics," Simon told U.S. oilmen yesterday. "One day they may find their oil market tending sharply downward — and once it is gone, even lower prices will not bring it back."

Power Scrapped

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford yesterday signed a bill ending presidential powers to use American armed forces to protect Taiwan and the Pescadores islands off the coast of China.

The move, repealing ajoint congressional resolution of 1955, was regarded as another step in normalizing relations with China — which claims Taiwan and all its islands as part of the Peoples Republic.

The 1955 Formosa resolution, written by the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, was passed 85-3 by the Senate at the height of Communist Chinese bombardment of offshore islands and ships of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Dulles said the Peking action had brought the United Sttes "to the brink of war."

Moro Considered

ROME (UPI) — Politicians said today President Giovanni Leone is expected to pick Foreign Minister Aldo Moro as premier in a new attempt to end Italy's 26-day-old government crisis.

They said the president might announce his choice tonight as soon as he finishes two days of talks with political leaders.

Political sources said Amintore Fanfani, the Christian Democratic party secretary who gave up as premier-designate four days ago, recommended the soft-spoken Moro, 58, as his successor.

Rap Thieu

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese legislators today denounced President Nguyen Van Thieu again for shielding corruption and for the first time made the same charge against Vice President Tran Van Huong, long a symbol of morality in the government.

Eleven members of the 159-seat National Assembly made direct charges against Thieu and Huong at a news conference, adding fuel to the spreading political fire.

Catholics, Buddhists, students, legislators and Vietnamese newsmen have been waging a campaign against Thieu and his administration for the past two months.

Plan Called Off

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A lawyer for Patricia Hearst's parents says a daring plan to have an ex-mobster engineer a "re-kidnaping" of their daughter was called off because they feared for her life.

Attorney James M. MacInnis said yesterday that ex-convict Mickey Cohen proposed a plan to return Miss Hearst by force,

MacInnis said the plan was rejected because Hearst "wouldn't want to put something into motion to cause his daughter to be harmed."

New Talks

MOSCOW (UPI) — West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt held new talks with Soviet leaders today in an attempt to break the Kremlin's hardline stand on the delicate issue of West Berlin.

The morning meeting took place at the Kremlin. Yesterday, Schmidt began a three-day round of talks with Communist party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Israel Blasts Recognition Of Guerrillas

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Israeli newspapers said today the emergence of the Palestinian guerrillas as the dominant force in the Israeli-occupied West Bank of Jordan had struck a heavy blow at Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's Middle East peace efforts and virtually torpedoed the Geneva peace conference.

The triumph of Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat came at an Arab summit conference in Rabat, Morocco, when Arab kings, presidents and sheikhs recognized the Palestinians' claim to the West Bank in a major diplomatic defeat for Jordan's King Hussein who lost the territory in the 1967 Mideast War.

The Palestinians announced they would set up a government in exile — with a "wartime" cabinet — as the first step in trying to create an independent state on the West Bank, a move Israel rejected in advance. Former Prime Minister Golda Meir has said creation of a Palestinian state on the West Bank would be "a knife at Israel's heart."

Today, Hussein and Arafat set aside their bitter rivalry to join in the surprise agreement in a rare show of unity. Arab sources said King Faisal of Saudi Arabia — whose oil money has financed much of the Arabs' anti-Israel actions — was instrumental in winning the agreement.

Israeli government sources said there would be no immediate official comment on the Rabat decision to recognize the Palestinian Liberation Organization as sole representative of the Palestinians, but that Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon might deliver the government's view when he addressed parliament later in the day.

In rejecting the PLO as a negotiating partner over the future of the West Bank, Israeli leaders have said the only place they would meet the guerrilla group is on the battlefield.

The Rabat decision is "a heavy blow to Geneva," said the Israeli newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth. "This decision puts an end to the possibility of renewing the Geneva conference in the foreseeable future."

The newspaper Ma'ariv said editorially that the conference action threatened both the efforts of Kissinger and the efforts of the Geneva conference.

"This will not weaken the strong position of Israel to defend its existence and the lives of its citizens," Ma'ariv said.

Arab sources in Rabat said there was no indication whether the Palestinians would set up their government-in-exile before the start of the U.N. General Assembly debate on Palestine next month. The PLO has been invited to join the debate despite Israeli objections.

Two In Jail; One Still Sought In $4.3 Million Vault Heist

CHICAGO (UPI) — Peter J. Gushi, 47, was arrested late yesterday on federal charges stemming from the $4.3 million burglary of an Armored Express Co. office — the largest cash heist in American history.

Police were seeking another suspect who they fear has fled the country with the stolen money — about 800 pounds of highly spendable and hard-to-trace $10, $20 and $50 bills.

Gushi was arrested at the FBI's request by Chicago police near police headquarters. It was Gushi's second arrest in less than 12 hours.

FBI agents said Gushi was charged with bank larceny, burglary and illegal use of explosives.

He is the second suspect to be charged in the Oct. 20 burglary.

Ralph Marrera, 31, an Armored Express security guard believed to be the "inside man" who participated in the heist, was being held under $400,000 bond on the same charges in connection with the burglary.

Prosecutors requested the stiff bond on Marrera for fear he would jump bond and because they considered him a likely target for an assassin's bullet.

Earlier yesterday, Gushi, described by police as a self-styled master criminal, and James (Jimmy the Greek) Maniatis, were arrested on charges stemming from a stolen goods fencing ring which authorities said handled $5 million in stolen goods annually.

JAMES MANIATIS

The two were indicted earlier in the day by a Cook County grand jury looking into the stolen goods ring.

Another suspect in the Armored Express theft, Charles Marzano, 42, was named in a complaint linked to the vault burglary.

Marzano has been sought for a week by FBI agents who want to question him in connection with the Armored Express heist. Investigators yesterday filed a complaint charging him ith obtaining an Illinois driver's license for unlawful use in connection with the burglary.

But authorities feared Marzano, who can pilot a plane, may have fled the country with the cash.

Thousands More Face Job Layoffs

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Thousands more workers faced layoffs today by corportions cutting back on production because of of sagging sales. One official said President Ford was trying to control inflation "on the backs of hard-working people."

In Washington President Ford promised 70,000 government jobs to unemployed Vietnam veterans and he asked private industry to find another 200,000 jobs.

In White Plains, N.Y., business and labor leaders sought to help 2,000 workers being idled at a General Motors plant.

Westchester County Executive Alfred Del Bello said President Ford was "trying to control inflation on the backs of hard-working people. I don't think it's going to do it."

GM, whose profits declined 94 per cent in the last quarter, plans to lay off about 6,000 workers Nov. 11. Both Ford Motors and Chrysler have announced layoffs, and more are expected.

The 94 per cent figure was computed against figures for the same period last year.

Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, and Treasury Secretary William Simon have predicted that unemployment may rise to 6.5 per cent — or about 6 million workers — by next year.

More layoffs were announced yesterday. Texas Instruments, a Dallas computer firm, said it would idle 2,000 to 3,000 employee in the next two months. The company also said it was delaying $25 million in construction and production capacity expansion.

Kroger Co., a Cincinnati-based supermarket chain, also announced postponment of some capital expenditures, saying it planned to open only 80 new stores instead of 110 as originally planned. The company blamed "dramatic changes in the economic and political conditions in which we operate."

In other economic news:

A number of major U.S. banks lowered their prime interest rates by one quarter percentage point to either 11 ¼ per cent or 11 per cent in an effort to stimulate business.

In Dallas, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said high petroleum prices imposed by oil exporting nations would force consuming nations to become self sufficient.

TODAY'S WORLD

"Yesterday it exceeded my husband's level of tolerance."

New Oil Regulations Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Energy Administration has approved regulations forcing oil companies to roll back excessive price hikes and preventing them from avoiding future price ceilings on imported crude oil.

The regulations establish rules on "transfer prices" paid for crude oil between international affiliates of the same company.

FEA chief John C. Sawhill said a preliminary government audit revealed that U.S. oil firms were paying considerably more for oil from their overseas affiliates than on the open market and passing the inflated costs on to consumers.

An FED spokesman said the proposed regulations "would add a set of rules to adopt a ceiling price on the amount oil companies could charge each other. They would limit the amount foreign affiliates can charge U.S. oil companies."

There was no estimate of the extent of price gouging, but FEA general counsel Robert Montgomery said, "there are definitely some violations."

"We do feel there are some companies where price reductions will be necessary," Sawhill said.

The "transfer pricing" rule was proposed in May. It became final Friday and goes into effect today after it is published in the Federal Register.

Planned Austerity Panel Scrapped By Tam Board

Faced with opposition by a teachers' union, the Tamalpais High School District board last night scrapped plans for a 13-member commission to study cost cutting in the district.

Instead, Supt. Robert D. Torrey and his staff will undertake the study, consulting with teachers' union representatives beginning this week.

Purpose of the study is to tell the board by next Jan. 16 which programs or personnel may be cut or other action taken to keep the district within the tightening financial limits imposed by state law, declining enrollment and steep inflation.

The board is hoping to avoid a repetition of last spring's dilemma, when a last-minute realization of financial problems led to a plan to eliminate 36 teachers' jobs, which in turn produced bitter controversy before it was dropped.

Paradoxically, a teachers' union last night fought the proposed planning commission because it was to contain several teachers — in fact, a majority, seven of 13.

"We don't want to put teachers in the position of voting for job cuts for their fellow teachers," said Frank Gold, president of the Tamalpais Federation of Teachers, one of the district's two unions.

Gold said all planning should be done by the district administration, but teachers should be consulted along the way. "We will cooperate, but we won't participate," he said.

At one point, Gold said teachers in his union would be willing to sit on the commission if the board guaranteed no teachers jobs would be eliminated. The board ignored the offer.

Torrey will meet this week with Gold and with Charles Greenly, president of the Tamalpais District Teachers Association, the district's other union.

Greenly also submitted a proposal last night, calling for the district management team to set up the study, and a nine-member select committee to conduct it.

With the collapse of the board's proposal for the 13-member commission and in the absence of formal adoption of any other structure, the exact structure of the fact-finding body is now up to Torrey.

During the evening's discussion, Redwood High School teacher Lyle Fisher presented figures to show the anticipated severe drop in enrollment may not occur. (Torrey's preliminary studies predict "serious decline. . .two years from now.")

Fisher followed various Marin elementary school classes through successive school years and found they increased in size more often than not. For example, the 132 third-graders in the Kentfield school system in 1972-73 swelled to 138 fourth-graders in 1973-74 and 149 fifth-graders in 1974-75.

The board decided further study is needed before it can tell if its premise about declining enrollment is undercut by Fisher's figures.

Last night's meeting was preceded by a 55-minute closed session whose purpose remained unclear, Torrey saying only that "it was about the hiring or firing of an employee." It is board policy to be indefinite as to its reason for any closed-door discussion, and Torrey said, "I'm sorry but I can't tell you any more."

Alioto To Ride Bus For Energy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Persons who work, live or play in San Francisco are being asked to go "carless" one day a week.

Mayor Joseph Alioto says he'll start the ball rolling by riding a bus to City Hall every Wednesday.

Alioto initiated the leave-the-car-at-home program to prove that cities can save precious energy while relieving smog and automobile congestion.

Each day of the week one section of the population will be asked to leave the car at home.

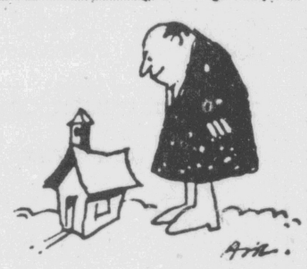
LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Courts Play Role In School



In recent years, it has become evident that the courts are actively involved in our public schools. The Supreme Court orders the dismantling of racially segregated schools.

The whole pattern of education is changed. The court decides that students have certain rights. To freedom of expression, to protest, to wear certain hair styles, clothing, arm bands. The disciplinary process in the school is affected. So is due process as interpreted by the courts guaranteeing the student certain rights before expulsion or suspension.

Recently the Supreme court ruled that non-English speaking students had a constitutional right to a meaningful public education.

In Lau v. Nichols, the new immigrant students claimed that they did not receive a meaningful education when they were taught in a language they could not understand. They did not learn, and their isolation was a part of governmental policies, which discriminated against them.

The Supreme Court ordered the local district court to provide appropriate relief.

The impact of the decision is important. In many districts, many students are non-English speaking. Groups affected could be more than racial groups. All may be entitled to judicial assistance.

Recently the court has ruled that state financing of public school systems must be fair.

State school financing cannot be so disproportionate in wealthy and poor districts so that there is a denial of fundamental interests.

Why so many law suits over education? Because children as a class are politically powerless. The political process has provided little educational change. Particularly isolated are the non-English speaking, the poor and the minority student. These parents have little political power to bring about change.

Recent cases have relied on the constitutional protections of the due process clause, equal protection and of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. Segregation of a student because of race, lack of wealth, language or other handicap creates harms that are prohibited by law.

FORD

nation "as I did in August."

Said he believed that he had stimulated some voter interest in the Nov. 5 congressional election by his campaigning through 14 states so far. But he expressed regret at the "voter apathy" which he recognizes throughout the country.

Announced he still intends to go to Japan next month despite growing antinuclear demonstrations in that country.

The President described his economic program as "finely tuned" to handle both inflation and economic decline. He said if Congress approves it, "I am confident that it will work."

"But if it doesn't, I will be open to suggestions" for stiffer measures, he added.

One of Ford's aims is to cut the flow of oil imports by 1 million barrels a day from the current 6 million barrel a day rate. The emphasis to date has been on voluntary conservation measures.

Asked if he might clamp a ceiling on oil imports, either by volume or dollar value, if the voluntary approach does not work, the President replied:

"We will move to what is necessary ... including the possibility of mandatory limitations to achieve that result."

Asked if he felt the economy was in a recession, a definition now used by at least three of the administration's top economists, Ford replied tartly: "Whether it is a recession or a not a recession is immaterial ... We really don't care what the name is. We want solutions."

As he has in a barnstorming series of political appearances around the country in the past three weeks, Ford urged Congress to act on his economic plan and indicated its success could be jeopardized by a Democratic landslide in the Nov. 5 congressional election.

Twins Separated; Father Ecstatic

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Salvador Rodriguez held one of his 14-month-old daughters in his arms yesterday and said "it's a miracle." Only six weeks ago his daughters, Clara and Alta, were Siamese twins.

They were joined together at the lower trunk and pelvis until flown from their home in the Dominican Republic to Children's Hospital here, where they underwent a rare operation to separate them.

Rodriguez's wife, Farida, who returned to the Dominican Republic two weeks after the twin's operation, flew back to Philadelphia last Saturday with her husband.

President, Wife At Horse Show

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Betty Ford had her first social outing last night since her breast surgery, attending the Washington International Horse Show. The President went too, but seemed to have eyes mostly for his wife.

The President escorted Mrs. Ford to their box at the National Guard Army and sat with his arm around her.

Occasionally, as when the Marlborough Hunt Club hounds romped and when an old friend, the Italian ambassador, Egidio Ortona, rode by, the President put on his eyeglasses.

mentalists on the other almost from the moment he took over as head of the FEA on June 27.

Consumer groups sharply criticized the Princeton University graduate and former finance professor at New York University this month when he suggested the possibility of an additional federal tax of 20 cents or more per gallon of gasoline to cut the nation's dependence on foreign oil.

Under Sawhill's guidance, the FEA put together a series of regulations allocating almost every gallon of petroleum in the country and setting price controls on petroleum byproducts.

Sawhill left his lucrative job as senior vice presiident of Commercial Credit Corp. on April 15, 1973, to become associate director for natural resources, energy and science in the Office of Management and Budget.

He was named deputy administrator of the then-Federal Energy Office under Simon last Dec. 4. When Simon left in April, Sawhill was named acting administrator.

Boxer Denies Strongarm Plot

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Former featherweight boxing title contender (Irish) Frankie Crawford went on trial yesterday for allegedly trying to hire thugs to beat up actor Robert Conrad, star of the "Wild, Wild West" and "D.A." television series.

Conrad said Crawford had threatened to have "underwld characters" beat him for failure to pay a $7,500 debt. Conrad denies he owes Crawford the money.

Crawford, who lost two title bouts in 1970 and 1971, has pleaded innocent to three counts of soliciting others to do great bodily harm.

Queen Airs Socialist Platform

LONDON (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth II, wearing the imperial state crown and royal gold and silver robes, today read a speech written by Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor government promising to take Britain still farther along the road to becoming a full-fledged Socialist country.

Wilson pledged a big new dose of nationalization and other forms of state control over industry.

His speech called for new soak-the-rich taxes, including a possible wealth tax, bigger social security benefits and higher pensions.

Accompanied by her husband Prince Philip, Elizabeth drove to parliament in the gilded Irish state coach drawn by four gray horses.

Concerned by recent bombing attacks, including one yesterday at the Birmingham home of a government minister, security authorities threw a cordon of thousands of troops and police around Parliament and streets leading to it on the 20-minute drive from Buckingham Palace.

The government announced plans for state takeovers of the shipbuildtng and aircraft industries, of land available for building and of Britain's rich North Sea and other offshore oil resources.

It announced creation of a state-run National Enterprise Board, which will buy into and have a big say in running major businesses still in private ownership in exchange for financial aid.

It confirmed government plans to let the nation vote within 12 months whether it is to remain in the Common Market. However, it left open whether this would be through a referendum or another general election.

It announced plans for creation of directly elected assemblies for Scotland and Wales, to give them greater control over their own affairs, legislation to end discrimination against women, continued subsidies for basic foods and more homes for rent.

Wagner of 1560 Buchanan; Joyce Borland, 17, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Willard D. Borland of 1 Garner Drive; Debbie Welch, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Welch of 205 Alameda de la Loma;

Supreme Court Will Decide Anew On Capital Punishment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today agreed to hear an appeal by a man on North Carolina's death row seeking to ban capital punishment forever as being "cruel and unusual punishment."

In one of a series of orders, the justices accepted the case of convicted murderer Jesse T. Fowler for oral arguments followed by a written opinion. This will give the Court the opportunity to expand on its landmark 1972 ruling that sharply restricted use of the death penalty while not banning it outright.

On the other hand, the justices could confine themselves to the narrower issue of whether the North Carolina Supreme Court acted legally in rewriting sections of the state's old death penalty law — revisions enacted by the legislature last April.

Fowler, a black, is one of seven men on North Carolina's death row who appealed to the Supreme Court, along with two inmates in Georgia. The Court accepted only Fowler's appeal, and the others presumably will remain in limbo pending a decision.

In other actions:

Four of the justices removed themselves from a case questioning whether former President Richard M. Nixon could have been removed from office for violation of citizens' rights. This left standing a lower court rejection of a suit raising this issue.

The Court let stand a decision by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court allowing benedictions at state high school graduations.

The justices rejected an effort by Tennessee to block production of evidence in proceedings granted to James Earl Ray, who pleaded guilty to the 1968 slaying of Martin Luther King.

The Court agreed to decide if fathers can decide not to accept unemployment compensation so that his family can be eligible for welfare payments which often are higher.

The justices ruled 8 to 1 that Quakers in the American Friends Service Committee cannot withhold part of their income tax payments in protest of defense policy.

The Legal Defense Fund of the NAACP brought all nine cases to the U.S. Supreme Court and asked that capital punishment be declared unconstitutional once and for all.

Lawyers said the death penalty is applied mostly to blacks and the poor and not to all people who commit the same kinds of crime, thus violating the 1972 high court ruling.

The LDF, which keeps nationwide figures, said that as of today, 149 persons were on death row in 17 states. Eighty of the convicts are black, three Indian, one Mexican-American and 65 white. North Carolina led the states with 49 sentenced to the gas chamber.

Twenty-nine states have death penalty statutes. The federal government has one for aircraft hijacking which was signed into law by President Richard M. Nixon a few days before he resiged.

No one has been legally executed in the United States since Luis Monge, 48, of Denver, was put to death in Colorado's gas chamber June 2, 1967, for killing his wife and three of his 10 children in 1963.

David Kendall, the NAACP lawyer who is handling the capital punishment appeals, said that states would probably delay any executions until the Supreme Court acts.

Few Resisters Still In Sweden

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Less than half the U.S. draft dodgers and deserters who took refuge in Sweden still live there, according to Count Wilhelm Wacthmeister, Sweden's new ambassador to the United States.

Of about 1,000 Americans who fled to Sweden at the peak of the Vietnam War, only about 400 have remained, he said yesterday.

He said most Americans have integrated into the labor market and have either married or moved in with Swedish women.

Retired Men Form New Unit Of Organization

A third branch of Sons in Retirement in Marin County will receive its charter at a luncheon meeting Nov. 7 at noon at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael.

The new branch will become Tamalpais Branch 47 of the rapidly growing organization for retired men. Hugh Paterson of San Rafael will be president.

More than 140 members have already joined the new branch during a six-month organization period, Paterson reported.

Speaker at the charter program will be Keith E. Houdyshell, actor and director of community relations for Great Western Savings and Loan Association.

Chance To Reform Board Of Equalization

Independent-Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
8 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1974 EDITORIAL PAGE

When the 1879 California Constitution was adopted, the state had four members of the House of Representatives. To conform to the congressional districts, the constitution provided for a four-district Board of Equalization to oversee tax collection practices throughout the state.

California now has 43 members of the House of Representatives, but the Board of Equalization remains at four. Its district boundaries, however, have been altered repeatedly. The Third District, which includes Marin, now includes also 27 other counties, nearly half of all the counties in California.

UNDER THIS ARCHAIC setup, the board is supposed to oversee collection of taxes totaling over $4 billion, maintain nearly a half-million business taxpayer accounts, assess public utility properties, and serve as board of appeals on county assessments.

To do this, it has 60 offices scattered around the state and more than 2,400 employees. It is a monstrous bureaucracy, which the four board members (plus the state controller, who serves as an ex-officio fifth member) cannot properly oversee.

TALLY P. Mastrangelo of Sausalito, Republican candidate for Board of Equalization from the vast Third District, proposes to change all that.

Mastrangelo has pledged that, if elected, he will work to expand the board to nine members, to make election to it nonpartisan, and to merge its functions with those of the now-appointive Franchise Tax Board to create a single state taxing agency.

He further proposes a list of legislation to make "equalization" of taxes come nearer to meaning what it says. Among them are these:

— Freeze property assessment values on residential property at their 1974 valuations until the property is sold.

— Permit collection of property taxes on an installment basis, with a credit to encourage early payment.

— Allow homeowners an annual income tax deduction of up to $2,500 for improvements and repairs made on their homes.

— Prohibit city and county income taxes and payroll taxes.

— Protect the confidentiality of tax return information, which now is being distributed to other government agencies and even other states.

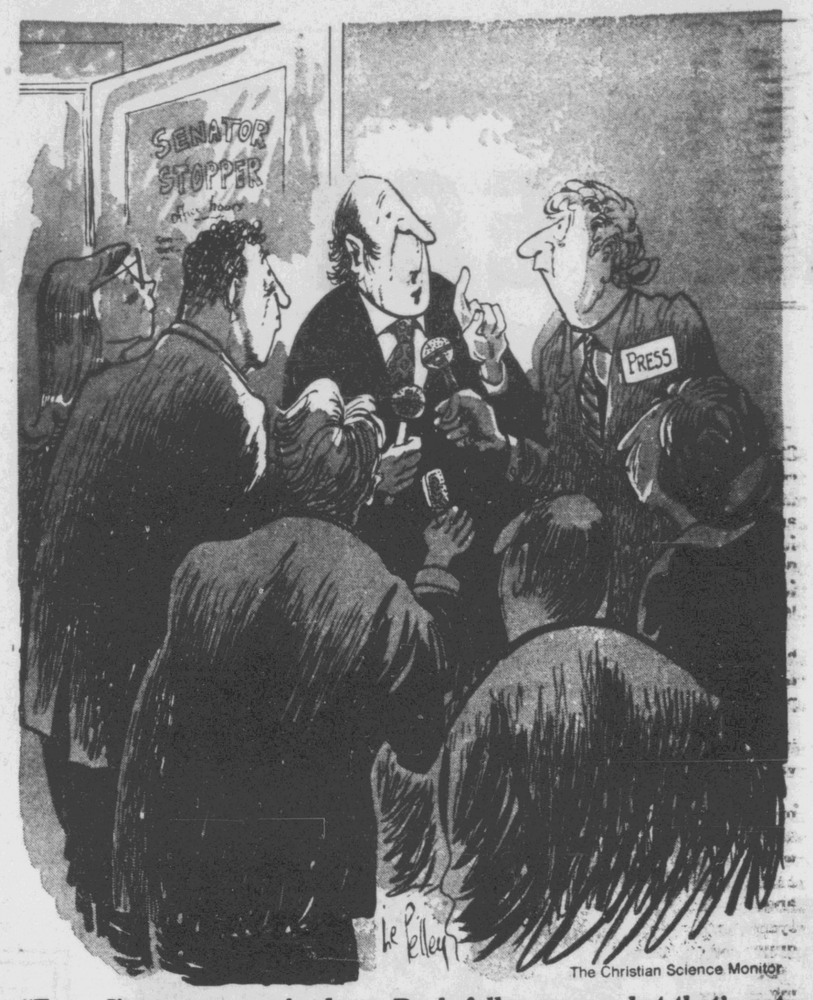
There are other points also in Mastrangelo's proposed legislative program, but the above are highlights.

IT IS ALMOST unheard of for the Board of Equalization or any of its members to propose any legislation, although it plays such a large role in taxation. And it is even more unheard of for a member or candidate to propose revamping the board, as Mastrangelo does.

Mastrangelo is running against an incumbent, Democrat William M. Bennett of Kentfield. Bennett has made no campaign. This seems strange, as his performance in office has not been such as to make his re-election on merit a foregone conclusion. He is much more noted for attacks on public utility companies than for any contribution to the Board of Equalization.

Bennett is a practicing attorney. Mastrangelo has been admitted to the bar, but his career has been in business; he is not a practicing attorney.

Tally Mastrangelo deserves a chance to try to put into effect the much-needed reforms he advocates. Let's give him that chance by electing him on Nov. 5.



"True, I've never received any Rockefeller money, but that's not a factor in my not confirming him."

Kissinger Starts New Travels With Burden Of 'Weltschmerz'

WASHINGTON — That intrepid traveler, Henry Kissinger, is on a new journey with a list of stopovers that reads like an up-to-date atlas. Around the world's crisis spots with 80 minutes allotted to each visit is the prescription.

You have to marvel at the sheer physical stamina of miles flown, time zones breached, strange meals eaten. But even more than the physical burden is the weight of apprehension the secretary of state carries with him. His foreboding is conveyed by the German word "weltschmerz," the literal translation, "world sorrow," falling short of the implication of intimate involvement in the anguish of mankind in a time of revolutionary change.

AFTER TOUCHING all the other bases, Kissinger intends to end his tour in the Middle East. Rather, he will go back to the old crossroads of shuttle diplomacy if he believes there is half a chance of moving the Arab-Israeli peace talks off dead center.

There, where he rang up the disengagement score earlier this year, is the greatest threat. By cold calculation of the irresistible force and the immovable object, a new war in the Middle East is inevitable.

Syria is the spearhead. Having built extensive settlements in the Golan Heights, the Israelis will not put the settlers in danger of returning any part of this occupied territory. So the Syrians, with a rapidly accelerated increase of Russian arms, will meet this refusal by an attack. Or the Israelis, fearing such an attack, will resort to a preemptive strike.

Increasingly, the blame for Israel's plight is placed on the United States. This was the thrust of a column in the New York Times by C. L. Sulzberger, writing from Israel. He gave figures for the tanks produced annually by the Soviet Union, 5,000, against 500 produced by the United States, and the tank and plane totals for Syria. These are the same figures put out by Israeli Prime Minister Yitzak Rabin when he was in Washington recently seeking assurances of greater military aid.

The blame for this is put, in part at least, on Kissinger. In Israeli calculations, he is set off against Secy. of Defense James R. Schlesinger.

ISRAEL'S SITUATION is infinitely worse than ours, with taxes that absorb all but a small fraction of surplus income. The defense budget is at least 25 per cent of gross national product. And this is rising with new fortifications on the Golan Heights and the call-up of reserves.

To absorb anything like 60,000 Russian Jews will mean an extraordinary effort in housing and job creation, should the agreement with the Soviet Union on emigration be lived up to. This comes at the same time that the rate of giving from Jews in the United States has begun to decline.

If the gloomy foreboding is correct and still another Middle East war be imminent, there should be no illusions about what it will mean. An Arab oil embargo would certainly follow. America's western allies, bent on saving their own skins, would stay clear of any effort to help the embattled Israelis. What another embargo would do to public opinion hardly needs underscoring.

If it is indeed a crisis of will, shrill and angry scolding will not cure it. That often invoked talisman, "leadership," might put us on the mark. But that implies a people relatively united rather than divided a hundred ways by a variety of discontents.

Bridge Directors Are Asking For Reduction Of Their Pay

Golden Gate Bridge District directors last week invited the Legislature to cut their pay. They probably don't even know it, but that's what they did.

At issue is a threat by key legislators to cut the pay unless directors improve their attendance at district meetings. Several legislators warned last summer they will introduce bills in January to require directors to attend an entire meeting to qualify for the $50 pay for each session.

SAN FRANCISCO Supervisor John L. Molinari, who has one of the board's poorer attendance records, volunteered to chair a special subcommittee to look into the problem. It was given one month to report recommendations. That was on Aug. 7.

Molinari's committee finally got around to meeting eight weeks later, and held three sessions this month before making several recommendations to the rules and policy committee. No notice was given to the public of any of the subcommittee meetings.

Its last session lasted a whole hour, even though one of the three members, Lawrence Mazzola of San Francisco, who has an outstanding attendance record, was absent. The subcommittee recommended that standing committees have fixed dates and hours to meet, that they have only three members, and that the practice of getting committee quorums by appointing directors who happen to be present be abolished.

The subcommittee's recommendations went before the rules and policy committee last Wednesday — where they were tabled by on a motion by Molinari, seconded by the president of the board, Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco. We haven't the remotest idea why the absurd little dance was performed, but it hurts to note that the subcommittee members were paid $50 each for their attendance at the three meetings.

POPULAR OPINION that power plants and oil refineries on the coast are a blight is wrong, according to no less an authority than the dean of the University of California's College of Environmental Design at Berkeley.

According to Dean William L. C. Wheaton, "power plants and oil refineries are not a blight on the landscape. They are among our most handsome structures. The blight is what comes to surround them," he claimed in a letter protesting the coastal commission's policy against such construction.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY: Letters To The I-J

What City's Subsidy Would Provide On TV

A letter to the editor Oct. 15 complained that the Mill Valley City Council was "quick to criticize, and slow to repair", and in this letter it was mentioned that the city council had voted to give $7,000 to $9,000 to subsidize a private concern for closed-circuit television coverage of their own city meetings. Because of personal interest, I was at that meeting when the TV issue was voted on and I would like to comment on some of the things this letter has said.

The Mill Valley City Council voted for TV programs about the people of Mill Valley, and anyone who has cable TV in their house and lives in Mill Valley will be able to see these programs. Some of the topics that will be shown are subjects such as a tour of the Mill Valley Public Library, the people of the Mill Valley police and fire departments, a show by senior citizens about their personal concerns, our town today and tomorrow, what are the youth of Mill Valley up to, etc.

Also the amount allocated was $6,000, and it was put in the responsibility of a citizens committee to organize the productions, and was not given to a private concern.

Series Of Questions On Proposition 17

Confusion, confusion. How to vote? What do all these various propositions involve? To the people of four northern California counties — Tuolumne, Stanislaus, San Joaquin, Calaveras — one proposition is particularly vital to their future: Proposition 17.

Can you rationalize that the preservation of a nine-mile stretch of intermittent white water outweighs renewed life for the entire Stanislaus? Do you believe it wasteful and inflationary to flush $100 million in dam construction cost down the canyon? Do you put importance on the restoration of fish life and spawning beds in the delta region and on the Stanislaus in particular? Do you believe that the problems of energy and air pollution are so far behind us that we can overlook an influx of 430 million kilowatts of clean hydroelectric power yearly? How do you feel about recreation? Do you think that public funds would be better spent for the creation of a lake with an ultimate use of four million recreation days annually than for preservation of a river section where private rafting companies charge $60 for an excursion? Are human lives and property lost in floods important to you? Do you care?

Law, Not Referendum, Discredit To State

John Wooley's Oct. 19 letter misquotes us. He quotes us as having said the right of referendum is a discredit to California. Our point is that Article 34 is a discredit to California. Article 34 of the State Constitution requires a local referendum before public housing may be built; Proposition 15 on the November ballot would remove this requirement . . .

The referendum requirement has contributed nothing to housing low-income persons. We must ask whether the process described is worth $50-60,000 in local tax money. . .the cost of a county-wide referendum such as is required by Article 34.

No one disputes the importance of the right of referendum in a democracy. But if our local elected representatives have recognized the need for housing all our people, then the decision of whether or not to use the tool of federally-financed public housing must be theirs. . .

Many San Rafael Spots Need Cleanup

Since San Rafael is undergoing some kind of a beautification program with the new park-like area near Fourth and Hetherton, cannot something be done about the garbage and broken bottles which are everywhere to be found in and around San Rafael?

I walk to and from the bus stop every day and these are the worst spots:

1. The back of Alpha Beta market along Fourth Street.
2. San Rafael High School grounds, the part at the base of Alice Street.
3. The mobile school grounds beside it.
4. A piece of waste ground near some office buildings at Park and Mission Street going toward Fourth Street.
5. Belle Avenue (particularly outside 212 Belle which is a "nursery school" and has a sidewalk composed of worn-away grass which contains much neglected dogs' excreta).
6. Ditches along Park and Union full of broken bottles, cans and even neglected grocery carts, broken MWD or PG&E "plates" on sidewalk.
7. The bus stop at Fourth and Hetherton is full of paper, cigarette-butts and can and bottles.

I am sure that other readers can find other disgusting places.

If a few responsibly minded citizens would get together, maybe they would spare some time cleaning up themselves and thus shame other citizens into keeping their front sidewlks and fronts of stores clean.

Fire Protection Issue In Measures A And B

We would like to bring to the attention of the prospective voters on Measures A and B regarding fire protection in the unincorporated areas around and in the City of San Rafael, that this protection is needed and these measures are the most economical way of providing this protection . . .

After many long and hard discussions, members of these communities decided this to be the best solution to the fire protection questions where they intend to reside.

Let's decide this issue on its merit and forget partisan issues. For an additional $20 per year on a $40,000 home we will have provided ourselves with adequate fire protection as well as mutual aid with the City of San Rafael.

Measures A and B deal with fire protection not annexation. This is the issue and should be the overriding concern.

Cranston's Record Needs More Exposure

California really hasn't had a senator looking after its interests since George Murphy was in the Senate.

There have been critical times in recent years and the two we have had there have simply not done their job. For example, when Lockheed was in trouble, and tens of thousands jobs were at stake with the possibility of this important company's closing; government action was necessary. Where were our so-called senators?

John Tunney was out of the country skiing over in Switzerland — completely away from his responsibility.

Alan Cranston was back in the woodwork doing nothing to deal with the problem. . .

Now, with the election in November we have an opportunity to elect a real live-wire in Bill (W. H.) Richardson who will be a "do-plenty" senator. In fact, he has been a real "do-plenty" senator in our legislature at Sacramento. . .

But why are segments of the media refusing to reveal all the facts about this major contest?

For example, a huge segment of voters does not understand that Alan Cranston: (1) is the biggest spender of all the senators facing the voters in 1974; (2) provided key votes necessary to kill anti-busing amendments which were passed overwhelmingly by the House; (3) opposed the death penalty even for terrorist bomb murderers; (4) proclaimed that negotiation through strength is discredited by both experience and common sense. . .

Two Cities' Street Plantings Pleasing

Would you please print this letter as an open "thank you" to the people responsible for the lovely street plantings we enjoyed around the county this summer.

Reunification Of Germany Gets Unexpected Peking Boost

WASHINGTON — In the flow of recent news, there was a minor item which caught our eye. In Peking a high Chinese official (vice-chairman of the standing committee of the National People's Congress) was greeting a delegation of visiting West German parliamentarians.

In the course of the greeting by said high official of a Communist country to the visitors from a distinctly non-Communist country, the Chinese government was stated to "sympathize" with West Germany's "resolute opposition to a permanent split of the German nation."

Not surprisingly, this provoked an angry reaction in Moscow. Yury Zhukov, a leading Soviet commentator, declared in Pravda that "Peking leaders have joined hands with warmongers from among the most rabid circles of international reaction."

IT IS RELATIVELY new for Peking to favor reunification of Germany, and more particularly to commend West Germans (as distinct from East Germans) for "their resolute opposition to a permanent split of the German nation."

It is difficult to think of anything which would be more upsetting to the Soviet Union than German reunification. In Moscow eyes, the most important and desirable result of World War II was the splitting up of Germany. To Moscow, the first priority of Soviet foreign policy is to keep Germany divided.

Indeed, if one wants to find the real key to Moscow's interest in detente with the United States, it lies in the fact that Washington has implicitly agreed to the permanence of the division of Germany.

No one in Europe truly wants Germany reunified except the Germans themselves. The main bridge of sympathy between West Europe and the Russian people is their mutual unhappy memory of Bismarck's greater German empire.

The division of Germany has long since been accepted by almost everyone, even by most Germans, as a fact of life. Not since John Foster Dulles left the State Department in Washington has any western statesman even bothered to pay lip service to the doctrine of German reunification.

HENCE IT IS STARTLING to find it being revived at this state in history by the Chinese, who, after all, live on the far side of the world from Europe.

There is only one plausible reason, and it is a disturbing one. From the Chinese point of view it is eminently desirable that there is a strong and self-reliant power on the far side of the Soviet Union. Right now NATO serves that purpose. So long as NATO is active, vital, and effective there is no danger of Moscow being able to expand its power westward.

NATO is a wall which stops and contains Soviet influence in Europe at the Elbe, just as a strong China puts a barrier to Soviet expansion eastward. Peking and Western Europe have a mutual interest in those barriers. The existence of one takes some of the load off the other.

But suppose something happens to NATO? If NATO falls apart, as it must if it is too long neglected, what can take its place?

The Chinese have obviously been thinking along such lines. From their point of view a reunited Germany would serve the purpose just as well as NATO, perhaps even better.

It is also a highly dangerous idea. The slightest sign of German reunification could trigger another major war more easily than anything else that could happen in Europe. Keeping NATO vigorous and effective is the safest course for everyone living in the Western hemisphere.

WILL ROGERS SAYS . . .

"I doubt if this new method of 'government by telegraph' which we are developing, is quite as effective as it's advertised to be.

"There is a good deal of difference between a vote and a telegram. In our system of voting they generally stop you after about once, or maybe twice, but any person can send as many telegrams as they have money and can think up names to sign 'em." — May 20, 1935.

Pun My Word! Sonoma Staters Are Clever, Don't Y' Know

There's a building at Sonoma State College which, until recently, was called the Commons. It contains a snack bar and a lounge for students and it functions as a makeshift student union, since a proper union facility won't be built for at least another year.

Lately the name Commons has disappeared, though, and the building is called the Anapendulum.

Strange name, I said on hearing it the first time. Sounds vaguely Greek or Latin.

For awhile I passed it off as my own ignorance. I thought it was merely one of those hoary words which members of the academic tribe used to banter about so fondly — words like symposium, forum and colloquium, for instance.

But one day it began bothering me and I decided to find what an Anapendulum is. Or was.

It took a half dozen phone calls to the Rohnert Park campus before I found someone who knew the story.

When it was told to me I didn't believe it at first, but it's like this and it's true:

THE LOUNGE in the Commons, by popular agreement, has long been known as "the pit."

One day the people who run the snack bar in the Commons decided it would be nifty to give their concession a name that had some class.

So some brave soul hit upon "Anapendulum."

Get it? The pit anapendulum!

You're right — it's awful. But it's true anyway.

PETALUMA IS ALREADY preparing for the national bicentennial celebration.

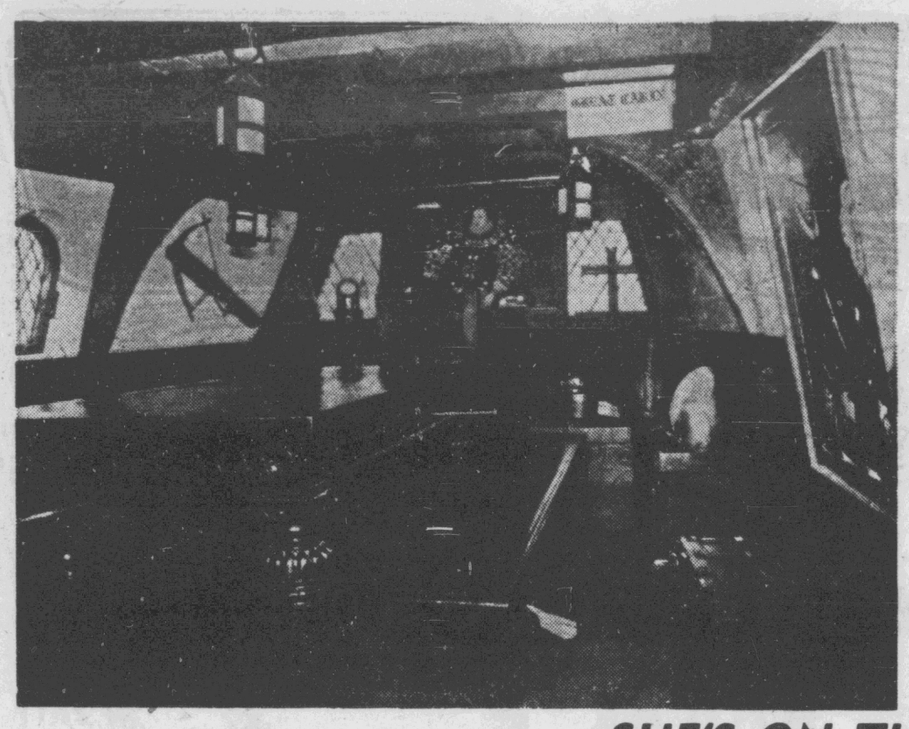
Hanging in the city council chambers is a copy of an early American flag known as the Bennington flag.

The origional was first flown by American troops in 1777 when Gen. John Stark led them to defeat the British in a battle near Bennington, Vt.

Kenneth J. Colin, a former councilman who chairs the city bicentennial committee, presented the flag recently to Mayor Helen Putnam.

It carrries a circle of 13 seven-pointed stars on a blue field, and in the center of the circle is the figure 76. The 13 stripes begin and end with white instead of the usual red.

Bicentennial planners in Petaluma are tentatively planning a Washington's Birthday Ball for 1976, and other possibilities include a torchlight flotilla down the Petaluma River and a parade. The celebration may be tied up with the popular annual Old Adobe Festival held at Gen. Mariano Vallejo's old fortress east of the city.



SHE'S ON THE HIGH SEAS

The $1 million replica of Sir Francis Drake's Golden Hinde has left England and is sailing across the Atlantic. Before leaving England, where she was built, the ship was outfitted with gear similar to Drake's time. The Great Cabin (left) is home to 16 officers and a crew, while Drake's Cabin (right) is home to the ship's master, Capt. Adrian Small. The Golden Hinde left Plymouth Sept. 29 but was forced to ride out a storm at Falmouth until Oct. 1. She reached Lisbon Oct. 7 and sailed Oct. 11. Sailing south-southwest to take advantage of the trade winds, the ship is now in the vicinty of the Canary Islands. Expected arrival in San Francisco Bay is March 5-15. The original Golden Hinde arrived on Marin shores in May 1579, but the exact location is the source of an historical controversy.

Ford Signs No-Knock Repeal Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford yesterday signed 22 bills ranging from a repeal of 1970 laws permitting "no-knock" drug raids to a measure abolishing the mandatory automobile seat belt-ignition interlock system.

The 22 bills were among 36 pieces of legislation that have been awaiting Presidential action since Congress adjourned Oct. 18.

Other major bills signed give Congress control over transfers of nuclear materials to foreign countries, order research into solar energy, and end the U.S. commitment to defend Taiwan.

Ford has until midnight to act on the 14 remaining bills, which include more money for Amtrak, a bill to give blind vendors preference over vending machines in federal buildings, and a measure increasing federal insurance on personal bank accounts from $20,000 to $40,000.

The "no knock" laws were intended to allow federal agents to enter homes without warning to surprise drug traffickers before they could destroy the evidence.

But the laws led to abuses and homes of some ordinary citizens were mistakenly raided and the occupants terrorized.

The bill giving Congress control over the sale or gift of U.S. nuclear technology was inspired by former President Nixon's promise of nuclear power plants to Israel and Egypt earlier this year.

Ford also signed a bill funding the State Department and the United States Information Agency.

That measure contained an amendment repealing the 1955 Formosa resolution that authorized the President to use the U.S. armed forces to protect Formosa and the Pescadores Islands in the Formosa Straits against attack from China.

Other measures signed:

Initiate a foreign investment study act by the Departments of Commerce and Treasury to determine direct foreign and portfolio investment in the United Sates.

Authorize an additional $14 million for administrative expenses of the U.S. Railway Association and extend reporting dates of the Regional Rail Reorganization Act in the northeast corridor for 120 days beyond the present Oct. 29 deadline.

Establish a University of the District of Columbia which will consolidate in one land grant institution three existing schools — Federal City College, the Washington TechnicalInstitute and the D.C. Teachers' College.

Authorize appropriations of $5.5 million for 1975 fiscal year to carry out functions of the Marine Protection, Research and Sanctuaries Act of 1972.

Authorize appropriations of $741.9 million for State Department and $239.5 million for U.S. Information Agency for 1975 fiscal year.

Amend the National Visitors Center Facilities Act of 1968 which authorizes $12.9 million in federal funds for construction of a National Visitors Center here.

Increase an appropriation ceiling and make boundary changes in certain units of the National Park system.

Temporarily suspend duty on crude feathers and downs until June 30, 1979.

Eliminate carriage, storage or handling of governmental or charitable property free or at reduced rates in intercoastal trade of the United States.

Establish seven new units of the National Park Service and authorize appropriations of $1.3 million and $18.7 million for land acquisition and development.

Provide that a civil service retirement annuity which has been reduced to provide for survivor benefits may be recomputed to allow full annuity to the retiree during periods of non-marriage.

Provide for the duty-free entry of methanol when imported for use in producing synthetic natural gas or for direct use as fuel.

Suspend duty on bicycle parts and accessories.

Russ Archives Yield Alaska Indian Notes

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet scientists have discovered 18th Century writings which could reconstruct the lost language and vanished traditions of the Indian tribes of Alaska and the Canadian Pacific coast, the official Tass news agency said today.

Tass said unpublished notes, diaries and letters of Russian explorers of the late 18th and early 19th centuries have been unearthed in the archives of the Academy of Sciences of the USSR.

The travelers were employed by the Russian-American Company and talked with chiefs of Indian tribes.

The agency said the newly discovered writings "are considered by Soviet scientists as the key to reconstructing the vanished cultural traditions, customs and language" of the tribes.

It said the documents contain much information about tribes from the Athapaskan group — Ingalik, Tanaina and Atna — who lived in a vast area between the Yukon and the oceanic coast.

Travelers named Ivan Vasilyev, Vasily Ivanov, Pyotr Korsakovsky and others described in detail the economic system, customs and beliefs of Indians then encountering European civilization, according to Tass.

It said: "Particularly valuable, in the opinion of specialists are dictionaries and comparative tables of the Athapaskan languages compiled by the explorers. They contain a great number of long-lost words and phrases which will help trace the historic evolution of the Indian language."

College Seeking Use Of Surplus Property

The Sausalito City Council, meeting at 8 p.m. today in council chambers on Bridgeway, will discuss with representatives from New College the possible shared use of federal surplus property on the city's waterfront.

Following the discussion, Councilmen are to consider approving the revised environmental impact report for the proposed $38 million Schoonmaker waterfront development.

Police Tactics Program Set

"Who's Watching You!," a program about police intelligence and surveillance, will be presented by the Organizing Committee for a Fifth Estate at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the College of Marin in Olney Hall.

"Red Squad," a film about surveillance activities of the New York City police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation, will be shown. A member of the committee, Doug Porter, will lecture and present a slide show on wiretaps, political surveillance and agent provocateurs.

Admission is by 50-cent donations.

$2.2 Million In Alimony Is Ordered

MIAMI (UPI) — George B. Storer Sr., millionaire founder of Storer Broadcasting Co., has been ordered to pay a record $2.261 million in tax free alimony to his third wife, Dorothy.

The alimony ruling made by Circuit Judge Alan Schwartz Sept. 16, but not revealed until today, is being appealed by the 74-year-old Storer.

Schwartz ruled that "the style of living which these parties accustomed themselves to boggles the mind."

In addition to the alimony, ordered to be paid in 119 equal monthly installments, Schwartz also directed Storer to turn over to his ex-wife the couple's $750,000 Miami Beach home and pay nearly $211,000 in legal fees and court costs.

Schwartz said the attorneys involved in the case told him it was the largest alimony settlement ever awarded in a U.S. court.

Storer did not appear in court during the lengthy proceedings. He submitted to the court last Dec. 31 an unaudited balance sheet placing his net worth at $31.64 million.

An hour-long Halloween parade will be held Thursday at 1:30 p.m. on the grounds of John MacPhail School in Santa Venetia, the school's parent-teacher association has announced.

Four public meetings to discuss mental health needs in Marin have been scheduled by the Marin Mental Health Advisory Board.

The first is scheduled for Nov. 6 at 7:30 p.m. at 40 Fourth Street, Point Reyes Station.

Others are Nov. 11 at 8 p.m., Strawberry Community Center, Mill Valley; Nov. 13 at 8 p.m., 1516 Grant Avenue, Novato; and Nov. 18 at 8 p.m., 20 H Street, San Rafael.

ART BUCHWALD

When Uncle's Sick, Too Many Doctors Spoil The Prescription

WASHINGTON — Uncle Sam was wheeled into the emergency room on a stretcher.

"What seems to be the trouble?" the nurse asked.

"I don't know," his nephew, John Q. Public, replied. "He's sick. His rate of inflation is twice as fast as it used to be and he can't move his gross national product. He keeps complaining that his economy is sluggish."

"I'll call Dr. Ford," the nurse said.

DR. FORD came into the emergency room and took Uncle Sam's pulse. "Hmmn," he said. Then he listed to his heart with a stethoscope. "Hmmn," he said again. He looked into Uncle Sam's mouth and said, "I don't like it."

"What's wrong?" John Q. Public asked.

"How do I know?" Dr. Ford replied. "I'm new at all this. Now if he needed a pardon operation, I could help him."

"Please, Doc," John Q. Public cried, do something."

"I'm going to need a consultation with other doctors. I'll call a summit for next week."

THEY LEFT Uncle Sam in the emergency room and a week later specialists who had flown in from every part of the country gathered around the patient.

One doctor said, "He's suffering from an acute recession."

"I beg to differ with you," another doctor said. "It's a clear case of swollen stagflation. I think we should inject more money into his body."

"Ae you crazy?" a third specialist yelled. "His inflation rate is already at two digits. The only way to save him is to cut off his leg."

"Wrong," said another specialist. "We have to lower his prime rate and increase his productivity. Give him an immediate shot in the arm."

"NO, NO, NO," another doctor shouted. "We should put him in traction and put controls on every part of his body."

"I say we should ration his blood."

"Tax his heart."

Transplant his liver."

"Let him bleed some more until it hurts."

"Cut his defenses."

"Take him off Medicare."

"Reduce his consumption."

UNCLE SAM was groaning in pain, but no one seemed to notice him.

John Q. Public was nervously looking from one doctor to another.

Finally Dr. Ford said, "Thank you, gentlemen, you've all been a big help. I don't know what I'd have done without you."

He gave each of the experts a set of cuff links as they filed out of the emergency room.

When they were gone, John Q. Public said anxiously to Dr. Ford, "What are you going to do to him?"

"HE'S GOING to have to bite the bullet," Dr. Ford replied grimly. He went over to Uncle Sam and said, "I don't know how to tell you this."

"It's okay, Doc," Uncle Sam croaked. "I can take it."

"Now this is what I want you to do," Dr. Ford said, writing out a prescription. "When you sit down at the dinner table, take all that you want but eat all that you take. I hope you'll be better in a few months."

County Paid For Air Fare By Wornum

Marin County Supervisor Michael Wornum yesterday reimbursed the county $80 for his first-class air fare to Washington, D.C., last August.

The $80 is the difference between the cost of tourist class and first-class accommodations.

Wornum, Democratic candidate for the state Assembly, was criticized this month by his Republican opponent, A. Alan Hill, for traveling first class at taxpayers' expense.

He later acknowledged that he hadn't used the first-class ticket but instead gave it to his wife and traveled tourist on another plane — at his own expense.

Wornum added that he decided to pay back the county after Hill leveled the criticism.

Broemmel Clarifies Purpose Of Trip

A reporter's notebook in yesterday's Independent-Journal incorrectly said that Assessor Bert W. Broemmel traveled to Washington two years ago at his own expense to represent the interests of his office.

Broemell said yesterday that actually he went to Washington on a vacation, but while there spent more than half his time on county business.

Furniture Heir Dies; Wife Held

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Bernard Castro, the 26-year-old heir to the Castro Convertibles furniture store chain, was shot to death in his home last night.

Fort Lauderdale police took Castro's 24-year-old wife, Julie, into custody following the shooting and booked her on an open charge of homicide.

Police gave out few details of the shooting, except to say Castro was rushed from his home to a local hospital and was dead on arrival.

Castro Convertibles pioneered a line of chairs and sofas that convert into beds.

Fire Protection Is Issue Before Voters

Voters in 10 unincorporated areas around San Rafael will be asked next Tuesday to upgrade their county fire protection to meet the "mutual aid" conditions imposed by city officials.

Measure A on the ballot proposes a county service area as the taxing agency, while Measure B calls for a tax-rate ceiling of 71 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The taxing area, if approved, will cover Bayside Acres, Bellvue, Bret Harte, California Park, Country Club, Los Ranchitos, McNears, Rafael Meadows, Santa Venetia and Sun Valley.

Passage of the two proposals requires a simple majority vote and would authorize construction of a new fire station at the top of Puerto Suello Hill. It would be equipped with two trucks and three firemen at all times.

The measures are an outgrowth of a dispute between county and city officials over a "mutual aid" agreement, under which one fire department can request assistance from the other.

The dispute began when San Rafael officials complained that the county was relying too much on the city fire department for help.

City councilmen last year voted to no longer provide "first call" response to fires outside city limits, but instead respond only after a county fire truck and two firemen arrived at the scene and requested aid.

Since the county has only one truck and a single fireman stationed in Santa Ventia to serve the areas around San Rafael, the city's action meant fires would burn until aid arrived from county fire stations at Marin City and Woodacre.

After hasty negotiations called by Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere, the city reinstated "mutual aid" until Nov. 18 on condition a ballot measure for improved service was placed before voters.

While the proposed tax rate is 71 cents, the net increase will total only 24 cents per $100 assessed valuation because residents already pay a special fire tax rate of 47 cents, which will be dropped if the measure pass.

In dollars, that means about $14 per year more for the owner of a $30,000 home, $20 per year more on a $40,000 home and $36 per year more on a $60,000 home.

According to Roumiguiere and a citizens' group supporting the measures, the increase in taxes may be offset by decreases in home fire insurance premiums.

Formation of the fire sercice area is complicated, however, by Measure E on the ballot. That proposes the annexation of Country Club to San Rafael.

If it is annexed, meaning it would not be a part of the new fire service area, it would force another tax rate election to finance the new fire station and equipment.

Roumiguiere estimated it would take a tax rate of 92 cents per $100 assessed valuation to finance the same level of service if Country Club is not part of the taxing area.

Chief opponents are John L. and Jane Levinsohn of Country Club who have been leading the fight for annexation as well.

They maintain that the service area will be an inefficient and costly additional layer of government and does not represent the total financial requirement for better fire protection.

The Levinsohns claim new waterlines will be needed in some areas and that residents may not receive insurance benefits until those lines are in.

Inouye Proposes Price Controls

HONOLULU (UPI) — Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, has called for rationing of scarce items and a return to wage and price controls to protect the public from "predatory policies of both big business and big labor."

In a Veterans Day speech, Inouye yesterday also called for control of corporate profits.

Inouye said voluntary energy cutbacks simply aren't working because Americans have lost faith both in their government and fellow citizens.

Sears To Close One San Francisco Store

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sears, Roebuck and Co. announced today it will close one of its two San Francisco stores next January.

Witness Tells Tricks In 'Winegate' Scandal

BORDEAUX, France (UPI) — The packed courtroom sat in shocked silence as a wine merchant admitted he mislabeled and passed off chemically treated cheap wines as prestigious French vintages.

He said thousands of other wine growers and sellers are doing the same thing, and what's more, experts couldn't tell the difference.

"I am guilty, that's true," wine broker Pierre Bert said yesterday at the start of France's wine scandal trial. "But there are thousands of others just like me. I have seen frauds everywhere, among wine growers as well as wine sellers."

The case has caused a major scandal in France, which produces the most prestigious wines in the world.

French laws strictly regulate wines from the vineyard to the bottle. The label on a bottle is supposed to guarantee that the wine is as advertised.

Eighteen persons are charged with fraud in the case, which involves some of the most respected names in the industry.

Wine is such a dominant factor in French life that the case has been compared in many respects to America's Watergate scandals. The French have even labeled the affair "Winegate."

Bert openly attacked dealers who sued him for damaging their reputations.

"That is pure hypocrisy," he said. "They know very well that others have done as I did and that they are not today in my company."

He is accused of switching documents to misrepresent low quality wines as costly Bordeaux vintages. Others are accused of chemically doctoring poor wines to change their taste and color.

The smartly dressed dealer said 1.5 million bottles of doctored wine was sold, some of it to French embassies and restaurants. He estimated that he alone has fraudulently sold some 375,124 gallons of wine.

Most was marked simply "Bordeaux," meaning it came from anywhere in the Bordeaux district. But about a fourth had labels specifying particular regions in the district such as Saint Julien, Medoc or Pomerol.

And some bottles are alleged to have borne even more particular labels —those of prestigious chateaux. But no particular chateau brands were mentioned in yesterday's proceedings.

The trial is expected to last three or four days with a verdict after several weeks. The scandal was uncovered in 1973 when government inspectors began an unannounced check on a warehouse of dealer Lionel Cruse, a director of Cruse Sons and Brothers. Cruse, along with his cousin, Yvan Cruse, are among defendants.

Jaworski Denies Charges He Discussed Watergate

HOUSTON (UPI) — Former Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski said today charges that he has discussed the Watergate coverup case on television panel shows are without foundation.

Defense attorneys in the coverup trial said in Washington yesterday they wanted Jaworski "to keep his mouth shut" about the case.

"I have not discussed the case," Jaworski said after returning to his Houston home from Washington. "It is clear that these charges are without foundation."

John J. Wilson, attorney for former Nixon aide H. R. Haldeman, claimed Jaworski has been "going the circuit of panel shows" since he resigned as special prosecutor. Wilson said such action violated a court order for attorneys to remain silent on the case.

Jaworski said he had appeared on several panel discussions but that he had not discussed the merits of the Watergate case. He also pointed out that the jury in the trial was sequestered and had no access to the news media.

"The marshals are very carefully instructed to prevent anything about the case from reaching the jurors," Jaworski said. "I don't know what Wilson had reference to but nothing I said had any reference to men who are now on trial.

"There were two or three questions that were asked that I plainly responded to by saying I could not answer."

Ex-Chief Backs Pot Citations

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Board of Supervisors is urging police and the district attorney's office to use citations and rehabilitation rather than arrests in minor marijuana and sex cases.

Board members voted overwhelmingly yesterday for the new procedure in the cases of persons caught with less than an ounce of marijuana or consenting adults engaged in an illegal sex act.

A strong backer of the new program was Supervisor Al Nelder, former city chief of police.

Under the program, cited persons would appear at the police station for a check of their records to see if they should be jailed.

If cleared, they would be diverted to a rehabilitation program.

Developer To Be Assessed For Hilarita Catch Basin

The City of Tiburon will build a basin to catch muddy water flowing from the Hilarita housing project but will charge the project developer for the cost, the city council agreed last night.

The City of Belvedere had asked that Tiburon stave off possible siltation of Belvedere lagoon this winter because of the project.

City engineer Stanley M. Bala reported that his original $2,000 estimate of what the work could cost had been cut to about $400 worth of materials and city labor. He also said that another proposal for spreading straw over exposed dirt was probably too late now that winter rain had arrived.

Paul Hecht, president of the Tiburon Ecumenical Association, which is developing the low and moderate-income housing complex, protested that much of the siltation was coming from other areas besides the project. "The water coming down from Hilarita today was clear," he said.

But he agreed the association would accept the bill for the costs and try to negotiate with its contractor about splitting payment.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

SEQUOIA PACIFIC — Agreed to have Councilmen E. Bruce Ross and Allan N. Littman meet with the planning commission chairman and Madrone Associates of San Rafael to discuss ways of speeding up the review of the environmental impact report for the Sequoia Pacific Development for downtown Tiburon.

LANDSCAPING — Approved an ordinance which would require developers to use ground cover to control erosion around buildings which might not be occupied within six months after their completion. The ordinance which received its first reading requires developers to put up bonds to insure installation of such erosion controls.

PINE TERRACE — Accepted a bid of $25,743 from Valentine Corp. to install drainage improvements in the Park Terrace subdivision.

TOWER — Set Nov. 25 as date of hearing to decide whether to name as an historical landmark the Lyford Hygeia Stone Tower at 2034 Paradise Drive.

CLOSED SESSION — Held a closed meeting to discuss possible condemnation of land the city wishes to acquire as open space.

Russ Police Stop Protest

MOSCOW (UPI) — Three Jews demonstrated in a busy Moscow square today demanding the right to emigrate to Israel. Police ripped up their signs but in an unusual move did not arrest them.

It was the first demonstration by Soviet Jews since the Oct. 18 announcement of relaxed Soviet emigration restrictions in return for American trade concessions.

'Wild Weasels' Leave Thailand

KORAT AIR BASE, Thailand (UPI) — A squadron of U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchief fighter-bombers left for the United States today in the continuing withdrawal of American warplanes from Indochina.

The aircraft, known as "Wild Weasels," were the last jet fighter-bombers left in Thailand. They carried special equipment for attacking anti-aircraft missile sites in North Vietnam.

SERVING MARIN AND SONOMA SINCE 1884

A GOOD TIME — Arm in arm, the students at Emeritus dance to the music of Greece. The course instructed by Robert Flynn (far left) is a favorite of Emeritus students; so popular that a new section was added.

A HELPING HAND — Volunteers such as these are the backbone of Emeritus College at the College of Marin. Men like Jack Collison and women like Roberta Dettner (right) and Mary Sue Fitzgerald give of their free time to carry out the work of organizing a 1700 plus student body.

Emeritus Students Far From Retired

By KAREN PETERSON

Jack Collison didn't think much about retirement, "it just happened" 12 years ago.

When it did come, the Larkspur resident discovered he had the "freedom to do the things" time didn't allow while he worked. This freedom led him to Emeritus College of the College of Marin, a new concept in continuing education open to men and women 55 and over. It is a college within a college on the Kentfield campus.

"Emeritus swam into my view," said the former marine draftsman, "I do have individual ideas and plans; here was a structure for it. I wanted to meet people; people I could talk to and people who in turn knew what I was talking about."

A San Rafael couple in their 70's came to Emeritus because "we thought this might be the place for enlargement. It was a chance to get acquainted and to make ourselves available to other people."

Some are seeking the intellectual and social atmosphere of Emeritus for a different reason; retirement isn't all it's cracked up to be. "It's getting to be a drag," said a Tiburon man of 66 who retired two years ago. "It's very disappointing."

His hope is that the year-old program will make his life "a little better, more interesting and give me incentive to live."

On the eve of its first anniversary, Emeritus is saying living means learning and relearning.

Courses, concerts, tours, forums, speakers — all are part of the Emeritus curriculum. And it's all planned around the students; their "needs, wants and desires," said Dr. Bernard Carp, former coordinator and affectionately called "father" of Emeritus by many of the students.

"We're not here to create a curriculum," said Dr. Carp, recently named director of the college's service and leadership program, "we're here to act as a catalytic agent; bringing together the very great people in the community to make up their own minds what they want."

Dr. Carp, the volunteers who helped get Emeritus off the planning board and the students, are trying to shake off the stereotype of the older adult. Intellectual stimulation, social interaction and a sharing of experiences, especially among the younger students at the College of Marin, is the threefold purpose behind Emeritus, explained Dr. Carp.

"There are preconceived ideas in society about what older people do, believe and what their interests should be," said Florence Vickery, instructor of an Emeritus course called "The Older Adult Years—A Time To Be Real." Among those stereotypes, often reinforced through television and advertisements, are that old age means institutionalization, retirement is always a trauma or always blissful, or that all older adults should dress a certain way, said Miss Vickery.

"My whole class is saying, 'here is a real gift on your doorstep, (you're) completely free to be yourself,' " said Miss Vickery, a consultant on programs and services for older adults.

The question to ask, she said, is "how will we live in the older adult years?" There is often a need for psycho-social adjustment during this period as "life space becomes less and less," she said.

Emeritus, as most students will say, is there to help with this adjustment.

Volunteers were, and still are, the backbone of the college. Last October, during the planning stages of Emeritus, volunteers were working around the clock, said Maurine Ver Mehr, publicity director for the college. She and her husband, Rudolph, were among the first to give up their time for the college.

"We were going to give birth to a new college, come hell or high water," said one volunteer.

It's also a place where older people can share with the younger students, an idea reinforced by the students themselves.

"Perhaps your experiences, shared with mine, can give me the hope I need to cope with our ever-changing world," a 21-year-old woman told the Emeritus students at the onset of the program.

"We have a unique relationship with the young," said Dr. Carp, "The image society has placed on us, we have accepted. The first thing is to change our image among the young."

Emeritus was set up by an advisory council consisting of both retired persons and college students. The hope is that the young student will feel free to take Emeritus courses, as some have already.

Emeritus is also a place where the older adult can "recycle his talents," said Mrs. Ver Mehr, herself a former elementary school teacher and principal turned publicity person. The new director of Emeritus, James O. Sanders, 54, is a retired Air Force lieutenant colonel who began his career with Emeritus as a volunteer.

Emeritus started with seven courses, now there are 17. The curriculum is continually reviewed, using suggestions by the students and questionnaires, such as those circulated at last April's first planning convocation.

A "Gold Card" symbolizes membership in the Emeritus student body. With it, students receive a number of benefits including reduced fees for all classes marked Emeritus College, reduced admission to concerts and lectures, voting rights at student convocations, half price for parking and the college bulletin which announces special meetings, activities such as tours, trips and films, and other events free to Emeritus students.

What classes do the students seem to prefer? Hatha Yoga for the older adult, an autobiography writing course and Greek dancing, to name just a few, said Mrs. Ver Mehr.

Marin's Emeritus College has become a model for continuing education throughout the country. This fall a team of researchers from the Massachusetts Association of Older Adults will "write up" Emeritus, said Dr. Carp. Emeritus is one of three schools chosen by the group out of a field of 250 with programs for older adults.

Emeritus began with 300 students, jumped to 600 and now is past the 1,700 mark, even though publicity was held back for fear of losing a "quality program."

Dr. Carp, Sanders and the students at Emeritus feel confident that more and more will soon benefit from their labors, as does one woman from Corte Madera.

"I'm improving myself for work," said the woman in her 50's. "I had a fear of going back to school, a fear of association with young people. Now I'm looking around to see what is happening to older people — what I may be coming into. Some are having problems, some aren't."

"I should have done this years ago."

SHARING THE YEARS — Renee Heckman, 18, is a College of Marin student and an artist working with Emeritus. Her companion is Clemmie Barry, 73, one of the founders of the college. When they are together, there's no generation gap; they're interested in making sure the college for persons 55 and over succeeds.

Novatan To Lead Single Mothers

Gail M. Meblin of Novato has been elected president of the board of directors of Single Mothers of Marin.

Single Mothers of Marin has offices at the College of Marin and at 1405 Fifth Avenue in San Rafael. Its primary goal is to motivate single mothers to seek the help they need to improve their own self images, so that they will function effectively and constructively in their homes and in the community, according to Ms. Meblin.

Single Mothers of Marin acts as a referral service to agencies for single mothers, according to staff director Jini Lama, and offers a variety of programs, including monthly socials, growth groups, neighborhood rap groups and workshops. Educating the community to the needs of the single parent family, so social attitudes will change, is a goal of the director.

Other programs are designed for single mothers to offer support to one another in areas of weight reduction, clothing swaps, weeding, painting and house cleaning, sewing, counseling and teaching skills.

The board president is a native of San Francisco and was graduated from the University of California at Berkeley with a major in social welfare. She is contract manager for the County of Marin Community Mental Health Services.

Ms. Meblin has lived in Marin for 13 years. She is the mother of Matt, 12, Dan, 10, and Meg, 8 years old.

Boy-Girl Friendship Angers Other Girl In The Picture

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

You've often said that a guy and a girl can be best friends without anything romantic going on. That's what Bimmie and I are. I call him when I need someone to talk to. When he's upset about something he can't discuss with anyone else, he calls me. We don't go together and never have.

His girlfriend says I'm hurting their relationship and I should stop talking to Bimmie. That kind of got him, and he said I should ignore what she said.

Well, I didn't call for two weeks, and then something came up I just had to discuss with my super friend. Wouldn't you know, she was there when I called, and she'd got it all around school I'm trying to break them up.

Should I stop the best friendship I ever had? — BETTY

DEAR BETTY:

Why not let Bimmie decide? — HELEN

BETTY:

And if he decides for his super-jealous girlfriend, he deserves all the hassling he'll get until they break up. — SUE

RAP:

This is "Fool in Love" for the third time. You told me twice that I really was a fool to believe in a goldbricker who called me collect and borrowed money I never got back, then wanted me to pay for the plane tickets, motel and license so we could get married in another state.

Guess what: you were right!

He forgave me for turning him down, finally, and asked me to see him in Delaware where he was playing in a concert. I got over there a little early — and found him with another girl. He pretended he didn't know me. I heard she has moved in with him.

So now I'm back to my first question: How do I get my money back? — F.I.L.

F.I.L.:

And we're back to our first answer: Forget it and him! This time, won't you PLEASE listen? — HELEN AND SUE

RAP:

I'm an 18-year-old girl with a good family and soon to become engaged to a wonderful guy. I've always been very happy but now all I feel is scared and lonely.

Two nights ago I was raped by a so-called good friend. He was very rough and I have bruises all over me. I haven't told anyone, but this horrible experience has been constantly on my mind.

My boyfriend knows the man, and if he ever found out, I know he'd kill him. I can't go to the police or tell my parents. I just can't go through talking about it, being questioned and hurt all over again.

Please advise. I've always felt so sure of myself and now I'm just a — SCARED LITTLE GIRL

A rape should always be reported, first to your doctor and your family, who can then make the necessary decisions. You shouldn't have to bear this alone! When you talk it out (possibly with a therapist), your fear and loathing will gradually disappear. — HELEN

SCARED:

A rapist shouldn't go scot-free simply because a girl is afraid to name him! But since you've waied this long, there's no real evidence now. Confide in your family doctor and take his advice on how to proceed. — SUE

DESIGN FOR PEOPLE

Homes Can Put Office Decor Ideas To Good Use

By EMILY MALINO
Distributed by United Features Syndicate

For years a great many men I know have tried their best to make their offices look like their homes. Draperies, fine wood finishes, an antique or two, rich upholstery fabrics, and wall-to-wall carpeting with an Oriental rug laid on as an accent — all these have made offices an extension of home.

Having designed many offices with this objective in mind, I have always wondered why no one ever designed homes to look like offices.

After all, some of the most thoughtful and creative talent is involved with office planning and design, and some of the best ideas for practical living have been created to help provide the whole work process with a viable, pleasurable environment.

New plastic laminates that simulate cork, leather, slate, as well as butcher block and pale white oak; vinyls that look and feel so much like leather that even the cow couldn't tell the difference; chairs whose forms have been refined by intense design competition from many manufacturers; and carpeting that has a deluxe look and feel, tufted or woven of the hardiest fibers man can make — all of these have been pioneered for hard use in nonresidential spaces during the past decade.

And today's home should be as practical as today's office. With more and more women entering the working world, housekeeping must be reduced to essentials, and what could be easier or more sensible than to apply business methods to home planning?

In a room I designed for two children the older boy, at 14, has mounds of homework, while his 10-year old sibling has lucked out with an optional half-hour or so per night.

To make their dual world a feasibility, I borrowed an idea or two from contemporary office planning, I used a movable divider, the kind of partition that is currently popular in the open plan system for work stations where the furniture itself and a divider or two define each work space, rather than the conventional walls of the past.

The divider is covered with an acoustical material that is clad with vinyl, making a double-faced tack surface as well as an easy-to-clean sound barrier. Over the top is a slip-on book shelf for daily textbooks and a radio.

While the older boy burns the midnight oil, the younger can sleep or read in peace, making life easier for each — and for mother as well.

Office dividers are expensive; you can make your own. Decide on the size you need and construct it of one-by-fours. Cover both sides with homosote, a good tack surface, and then vinyl it or simply paint it to work with your color scheme.

The desk for the student is totally covered with an oak laminate and becomes a night table alongside the bed, its durable surfaces making it practical for both purposes; the chair is a design that is sleek, comfortable and totally maintainable with little or no care.

Even the carpet is borrowed from business. It is a tightly tufted charcoal grey of a continuous nylon filament, making it virtually indestructible and easy to clean should any spots ever show on this dense deep field.

All of the fabrics, finishes and shapes are as happy at home as in the office and there's no reason why designs for business should not work perfectly for the home.

What's On The Agenda

stallation of officers and a mini fashion show.

Installed will be Helen Loudon of Mill Valley as president, Mary Barnes of Belvedere as vice president, Joyce Thomson of Larkspur secretary and Virginia Johnson of San Rafael treasurer.

Euola Mutzig of Larkspur is coordinator of the fashion show, which will feature guild members modeling clothes from the 1920s to the 1950s. Models will show how the addition of a few modern accessories will change the nostalgia look into a style suitable for the 1970s.

More nostalgia: the Sisterhood of Congregation Rodef Sholom plans a Nostalgia Night dance and buffet Saturday night in the social hall of the temple. Those attending are asked to wear clothes reminiscent of their high school or college days.

Proceeds from the evening will go to camperships.

Information or reservations may be obtained from Elaine Rosen, Annette Heller or Lenore Schilling of the Sisterhood.

"The Party You've All Wanted," reads the announcement of the 1974 Elks Frolics, live stage show and costume party, scheduled Saturday night at the Maple Lawn quarters of the San Rafael Elks Club.

A stage show in the carriage house, presented cabaret style, will begin the evening at 8 p.m., with "dancing, singing and general frivolity" until 1 a.m. in the main lodge. Natural Gas Dixieland Jazz Band will play.

Beer and pretzels will be served.

A membership tea observing the silver anniversary of the Marin Chapter of Gold Star Mothers, Inc., will be held Sunday afternoon at the Venetia Oaks Clubhouse, 263 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael from 2 to 4 p.m.

Any woman who is a Gold Star Mother is welcome to attend the meeting, according to Maude Francke of San Rafael, who is taking reservations.

President of the local group is Belle Warren.

A gold star mother is anyone who has lost a son in U.S. military service.

FIRST SNOW OF THE SEASON

The first snow of the season settled in on the high Sierra community of South Lake Tahoe yesterday. With a two-inch total fall and more scattered snow predicted for today, some local ski areas have reported they would need only a few more days of sustained snow to have their earliest season opening in many years.

Dutch Begin Talks With 4 Convicts

THE HAGUE (UPI) — Dutch officials began negotiations with four armed convicts today for the first time since the prisoners seized 22 hostages in the small chapel at the Scheveningen jail four days ago.

"We now have begun what we consider the first beginnings of negotiations," a justice ministry spokesman said. "Both sides are talking about what can be done and what is wanted."

Two Arab and two Dutch convicts seized the hostages during a Roman Catholic mass in the chapel Saturday evening. Since then, six hostage have been released.

The gunmen demanded a fifth prisoner be allowed to join them but Dutch officials insisted that no real negotiations coald start until all the women and children were freed. All the children were released, but the gunmen still hold three women and 13 men.

Dutch officials said the talks were a breakthrough. The negotiating "may go on for a long time, but it has started moving," said a Dutch spokesmen.

The kidnapers "have made no specific demands yet, but this is being discussed by both sides. I think it at least will drag on through today and then we'll see," the spokesman said.

The last child released was 11-year-old Godfried Clercqs who said the convicts freed him because "I told them I had to get back to school."

The kidnapers still held the child's parents hostage.

Doctors said the smiling child was well. He was greeted by his 71-year-old grandfather, Johannes Den Boer, one of five hostages freed by the prisoners on Sunday.

The convicts seized the chapel during a Roman Catholic mass Saturday and took 22 hostages — two guards, a priest, an organist, a nine-member visiting choir and nine relatives of the singers.

The inmates, including Palestinian hijacker Adnam Ahmad Nuri, originally demanded the transfer of another guerrilla from the prison hospital to the chapel.

The hospitalized guerrilla, Sami Hussein Tamimah, threw negotiations into confusion yesterday when he refused to join the rebel inmates in the second-floor chapel.

In an emotional conversation over prison walkie-talkies, Tamimah said he no longer felt the same way about the Palestinian cause and wanted to serve out his jail term.

Tamimah and Nuri were serving five-year sentences for hijacking a British Airways VC10 last March and setting the aircraft on fire at Amsterdam Airport.

Police and marine marksmen ringed the high prison above the North Sea and the prisoners said they were talking among themselves to decide their next move.

Police supplied food, soft drinks and cigarettes to the chapel, but Dutch officials said it was unlikely the prisoners would be allowed to leave the country.

Dutch authorities said they were prepared for a long siege.

Calm Is Apparent At Boston Schools

BOSTON (UPI) — Despite a long weekend of antibusing demonstrations,the seventh week of court-ordered public school desegregation began today in an atmosphere of relative calm.

Officials, however, kept 500 national guard troops on alert should any violence erupt.

An additional 500 policemen were on duty in the city's trouble spots in South Boston and Roxbury, where racial disturbances flared sporadically during the first four weeks of the program.

The demonstrations, which ended yesterday with a rally that drew 8,000 persons, were peaceful and limited chiefly to speeches by several Boston politicians who have been linked closely to the antibusing movement.

They spoke to the rally at Marine Park, not far from South Boston High School, which has been one of the schools hardest hit by the busing program. They included city councilwoman Louise Day Hicks, whose antibusing stand propelled her to Congress several years ago.

An antibusing motorcade Saturday night drove to the Needham home of state Education Commissioner Gregory Anrig. About 700 persons also drove to Anrig's home Sunday afternoon.

Four antibusing representatives spoke with the commissioner inside his house, explaining their position. Anrig declined to address the crowd, which left shortly after their leaders emerged from the house.

A smaller contingent of demonstrators tried to reach the Wellesley home of U.S. District Court Judge W. Arthur Garrity, but were turned back at several locations by police.

It was Garrity's June 21 order which forced the city to implement the busing plan, which has affected more than 45,000 students. About 18,000 students are actually being bused, with the remainder assigned to schools they had not previously attended.

Zoo Indications Show A Long, Severe Winter

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Tweetie, a buck barashingha deer in the city zoo, has thoughts of love under his antlers and that means it's going to be a long, cold winter.

Zoo director Larry Curtis said the deer and other animals which usually breed in the fall are late with their love-making this year, and that means a late spring birth of young to avoid severe, extended winter weather.

"Zoo animals seem to be telling us that Mother Nature is getting them ready for a bad winter," he said, noting that Tweetie normally breeds in September.

"Tweetie is becoming so aggressive that a few days ago he attacked a zoo truck and we had a heck of a time clearing the accident report through city officials," Curtis said.

"Not only are the coats of the deer getting thicker more rapidly, but Tweetie is just now entering rutting season, the mating period."

Curtis said carnivores also are mostly fall breeders, "and the lions and tigers seem to be waiting as long as possible to mate so they too can give birth in late spring."

Uakari monkeys usually mate in late September, but Curtis said the monkeys "just now are beginning to pair off."

The zoo's bison have a much heavier coat this year than they did at this time last year, he said.

"They are also eating more to put on extra weight, and so we feed them more. Bears at this latitude do not hibernate. But they are storing excessive layers of fat, and we're also having to feed them more.

"Alligators seem more reluctant to crawl out of their dens, even on days of mild weather," Curtis said.

He said the habits of animals at the zoo seem to be preparing for the severe, harsh winter predicted by a research meteorologist at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The production is directed by teacher Barbara Jay.

Experiment Promises New Extrusion Uses

STANFORD (UPI) — A new "hydrostatic extrusion process" that may permit shaping very hard, brittle materials is the subject of a three year, $250,000 research program by Stanford University.

The new process squeezes the material being shaped with fluid pressure on all sides so that a heavy copper rod, for example, can be drawn down to a thin wire in just one step rather than the multiple steps of the conventional process.

Guards Still Patrolling At Watershed

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Guards remained at gates leading to Portland's Bull Run watershed today, although a U.S. Forest Service spokesman denied that any devices that might endanger the city water system had been found in the 102-square-acre preserve.

An extortionist who earlier had threatened to sabotage power transmission towers in the Portland area warned he would damage the city's water system unless a demand for $1 million was met.

Joe Stockbridge, a spokesman for the Forest Service, denied yesterday a report in The Oregon Journal of Portland that dummy bombs had been found in the watershed, east of Portland in Mt. Hood National Forest. "Nothing has been found which would endanger the Bull Run water system in any way," Stockbridge said.

A threat of fire in the Bull Run watershed was contained in a letter, signed "J. Hawker," which the Portland office of the FBI received Oct. 22.

Udall Calls For Cut In Use Of Oil

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Former Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall yesterday recommended a 20 per cent cut in oil consumption and immediate gasoline rationing.

Speaking at an environmental symposium for teachers at North Allegheny High school, Udall estimated the nation had only six years of oil reserves.

"After that," he said, "we'll have to start living lean."

Udall was critical of President Ford for following former President Richard Nixon's energy program.

"We're very foolhardy in plunging down the road toward more imports," he said. "I'd rather cut oil consumption 20 per cent and go to gas rationing right now."

The former government official said the energy shortage would move America from the era of affluence to one of scarcity.

Ford Defends Loans To Rocky's Friends

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today defended more than $2 million in loans which vice presidential nominee Nelson A. Rockefeller made to his friends and family as the legal prerogative of a wealthy man.

Ford said he still supports Rockefeller and would nominate him as vice president again today as he did last August, knowing all that recently has been disclosed about the former New York governor's financial dealings.

The President added he was confident Rockefeller will be confirmed by Congress and asked for prompt action.

Praising Rockefeller's past accomplishments, Ford concluded:

"And therefore, these disclosures indicate that he does believe in helping his friends, and a man of that wealth certainly, in my judgment, has that right to give as long as the law is obeyed, and as I understand, he has."

Ford added that he assumed Rockefeller would use the experiences of the past few weeks as a guide in dispensing any more loans in the future from his family's vast forture.

Rockefeller has released two lists of loans he made over the past 17 years, totaling more than $2million.

Town Sues Post Office For Discontinuing Mail

GROVER CITY (UPI) — The little town of Grover City has filed suit against the United States Postal Service in a dispute over discontinuance of mail service to some homes because of relocation of mail boxes.

The suit, originally filed in San Luis Obispo County Superior Court, was transferred yesterday to U.S. District Court in Los Angeles.

For years home mail boxes in Grover City have been on stands alongside the streets so that mailmen could insert letters without getting out of their delivery vans.

Then the town built sidewalks and in July the City Council passed an ordinance requiring that the mail boxes be moved back onto the residents' property which meant that the postmen would have to get out of their vehicles.

The Postal Service promptly warned that any homeowners who complied would lose their delivery of mail.

In September the council ordered a test case and set aside 32 homes on Atlantic City Avenue as guinea pigs. The 16 residents who moved their mail boxes have been without home delivery since that time.

The latest suit seeks to enjoin the Postal Service to make home delivery regardless of mail box locations.

City Attorney Stephen Cool said a similar dispute was under way in Grand Island, Neb., but that Grand Island was waiting to see how Grover City made out before taking legal action.

Bus Depot Parking To Be Discussed

A joint meeting on proposals to revise parking and landscaping around the Mill Valley Bus Depot will be held by the city's architectural advisory committee and planning commission tomorrow at 8 p.m. at City Hall, according to planning associate Robert J. Hanna.

The last session on the subject drew many merchants who protested against the depot plans and against a new road improvement project recently begun on Miller Avenue in the La Goma-Montford area.

Many Residents Venerate On Skeleton

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Some residents of Northwest Argentina, Paraguay and Southern Brazil venerate an image known as Our Lord of the Good Death.

The image, a skeleton seated with chin resting on one hand, does not correspond to any saint of the Roman Catholic faith professed by most of the population. Prayers are said to Our Lord of the Good Death, also known as Saint Death, for luck in love, gambling and fighting.

Wall Street's Black Day Recalled

By RON SCHERER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK — Today is one anniversary that won't be celebrated on Wall Street. It's the 45th anniversary of the great stock market crash of 1929. As such it evokes no hurrahs among a financial community that feels it has in practical terms gone through another depression.

However, as Wall Streeters are quick to note, there are many differences between the current bear market and the past crash. (In terms of the Value Line unweighted stock average, the current market fall is second only to the 1929-32 debacle.)

There has been no day since the crash that the Dow Jones industrial average has lost 10 per cent of its value, as happened on Oct. 29, 1929. That day the Dow fell 30.57 points, and the stock market experienced record-breaking volume of 16.7 million shares. The tape ran until 9 p.m. and clerks worked all night.

Recalls Ira C. Vendig, now a broker with Bache and Co., but then a runner for Steiner, Rouse & Stroock, "I worked so late I had to sleep over in New York."

Another veteran of the period, Lucien O. Hooper, vice president at Thompson and McKinnon Auchincloss Kohlmeyer, Inc., recalls, "We were all just watching what was going on with a great deal of awe and wonderment. In those days there were no computers and the clerks had to work all night."

Hooper, a veteran of 55 years of market watching, was at that time the head of research at Frasier Jelke & Co., a big retail brokerage house. He notes:

"In those days the customers were trading on very thin margins, usually 15 per cent of the net value of the stock traded. Consequently when prices broke so sharply, the public was bankrupted."

Another peculiarity of the crash, Hooper remembers, was the suddenness. For example, on the day before the fall, Charles Mitchell wrote, "Conditions are fundamentally sound." And on the day of the crash Prof. Irving Fisher said, "Stock prices have reached what looks like a permanently high plateau."

Following the crash, prices rallied and by April the market had regained half its October-November losses. The rally, however, was actually a trap, and the bottom once more fell out of the equity market. By July 8, 1932, the Dow stood at only 11 per cent of its 1929 Labor Day high.

There were many reasons for the market's decline. First, intense public speculation drove prices sky high; second, there was no supervision — the Securities and Exchange Commission did not exist until 1934; third, the government had no mechanism designed to intervene in the money markets as the Federal Reserve Bank does today.

Also, as Monte Gordon, now a vice president of Dreyfus Corp., notes, "In 1929 they had no short-sale rule, and groups called pools operated without supervision."

Jesse Livermore, a bear who ran a pool, even wrote in his reminiscences that he was blamed for the crash through short selling. Livermore, who eventually went broke himself, roundly denied the allegation.

In the light of the many changes in the market, such as the lack of public speculation, the computerization, and higher margin requirements, will the market experience another crash? It is almost universally agreed that it will not. Even bear markets, such as the recent one, have not been the same.

The market has taken some bad drubbings, although never quite so bad as in 1929. One analyst has noted that the Dow would have to drop at least 60 points in a day to duplicate the 1929 slide. While commenting that the possibilities are slim for a 1929 rerun, Gordon says, "In this work there is no such thing as never again."

Airplane Hits Police Car

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — A police car was struck in the rear yesterday by an airplane.

The patrol car had been detailed to escort the single-engine light plane along the Tonopah Highway to the North Las Vegas Airport. The plane's electric starter didn't work, so the pilot climbed out and employed the old-fashioned method of heaving on the propellor by hand.

That worked too well. The engine started and the plane lurched ahead at full throttle into the rear of the police car.

There were no injuries, but the plane destroyed the rear portion of the patrol car.

Kennedy's Crash Story Questioned

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's cousin, Joseph Gargan, almost accepted responsibility for the Chappaquiddick auto accident which killed Mary Jo Kopechne in 1969, the Boston Globe today quoted a "highly knowledgeable source."

The Globe reported what it termed "contradictions" between Kennedy's testimony and public statements about the accident and the statements of other persons involved.

The newspaper said its unidentified source said a plan to have Gargan take the responsibility was abandoned shortly before Kennedy reported the mishap to the police, a report which Kennedy has said came almost 10 hours after the accident.

The Globe quoted its source as saying that its conclusion was based on more than speculation and testimonial inconsistencies — and that Kennedy abandoned the plan because he "decided the alibi either couldn't work, or he couldn't live with it."

The Globe said it found during a two-month investigation nearly 100 discrepancies in the testimony and statements of several persons involved in the incident. Among these were:

Miss Kopechne wanted to leave a party she was attending with Kennedy before the accident because she was ill, Kennedy's chauffeur said. Kennedy told the Globe he did not remember that statement.

Kennedy said he established the time of the event the night of the crash with a clock in a car. The Globe said the car never had a clock in it. The Globe said it had located the auto on Chappaquiddick.

If Miss Kopechne was not the heaviest drinker at the party, as Kennedy told the Globe, then the alcohol level in her blood would indicate that other people at the party drank more than they said they did.

Sheriff Christopher Look Jr. said he saw Kennedy's car near the crash site about 90 minutes after the time Kennedy said the accident occurred.

Banker Attacks Utilities Board

Ernest F. Banker of Ukiah, Democratic nominee in the Second Senatorial District, yesterday attacked the Public Utilities Commission for "continuing indifference to consumers" and asserted it has a policy "of granting automatic rate increases."

The most direct reform of the commission would be to appoint members who "represent consumer interests, not industry interests," the Mendocino County supervisor said.

He also protested that the public should not pay through its rates for utility advertising, "especially in these times of shortages." Rates should not decrease as one uses more electricity, he said, adding the lower rate for high use is not given to homeowners.

If elected, Banker vowed, "I expect to keep an eye on the Public Utilities Commission for the next four years . . . I expect to be more vigilant than my opponent, who sits as vice chairman of the powerful Senate Public Utilities and Corporations Committee and has done nothing on behalf of the consumer." His Republican opponent is Sen. Peter H. Behr of San Rafael.

Banker cited numerous PUC decisions in recent years that have been overturned by the state Supreme Court as giving utilities unwarranted rate increases.

BOYLAN — Richard J. Boylan of Woodacre, candidate for Marin Municipal Water District's Division 1 seat, has proposed that the strict conflict of interest provisions in Proposition 9 be adopted by the district board so it applies as well to directors and district officials.

Boylan said the district ordinance should prohibit directors from receiving campaign contributions from anyone with whom the district has business dealings, such as pipeline companies and suppliers of major hardware.

POLL — A random telephone poll of 400 persons in Marin Municipal Water District's Division 1 has been conducted by students of the political action project at Sir Francis Drake High School's School Within a School. It found that only 31 per cent had made up their mind on whom to vote for to represent the division on the district board. Of these, 62 per cent favored Richard J. Boylan and 38 per cent Betty Forry. Asked their positions on the intertie with Sonoma County's water supply, 17 per cent favored it, 35 per cent opposed, and 48 per cent were undecided.

Call Boxes To Aid Motorists

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A 58-mile stretch of Interstate 91 soon will have radio call boxes to aid stranded motorists.

The federal Highway Administration has approved installation of 220 of the boxes on the stretch of road running through central Massachusetts from the Connecticut to the Vermont borders. The project is expected to be completed by September 1975.

The call boxes will transmit a signal to the Northampton state police barracks.

Homeowners Sign For Movie Package

WALNUT CREEK (AP) — A closed-circuit network using General Electric Cablevision's airspace reported recently that 1,600 Walnut Creek TV-cable users have signed up for a "movie package" which features first-run films.

The Walnut Creek channel carries 10 showings of 10 current motion pictures per month.

CONFUSING — Miller Avenue in Mill Valley, as seen looking west toward Mount Tamalpais, has been the scene of a two-block remodeling project, which many residents say they find confusing. On the far left is a lane for parking, then an asphalt strip for pedestrians and bikes. Next come two lanes for east-bound traffic, a median strip for planting and finally, on the right, two west-bound lanes.

A 'MINI-MARKET STREET'

Miller Avenue Project Flayed

By REBECCA LARSEN

"What are they doing to Miller Avenue?"

This is one of the most frequently asked questions in Mill Valley in recent months.

You hear it from shoppers hunting for parking spaces, merchants whose sidewalks have been torn up and drivers trying to weave their way through a maze of new median strips.

The focus of their puzzlement is a two-block area from Locust to Evergreen avenues. At city hall the strip is known as Phase I of the Miller avenue improvement project. But around town, people have other names for it — "Mini-Market Street," "Asphalt Jungle" and "Concrete Abortion," among others.

For years residents have driven down a Miller Avenue divided by a median strip of parking. The new two-block project has two median strips, one for landscaping and the other for pedestrian and bike travel.

Traffic flows around the landscaping strip. Behind the pedestrian median, on the street's west side, there are new parking bays.

But since only part of the proposed four-block project has been completed, sawhorses, signs and extensive painting on the pavement has to steer traffic from old lanes into new ones at the beginning and end of the two-block stretch.

Why did the city do it this way?, the confused motorist asks.

One vehement critic recently wrote to a weekly newspaper advising, "Before it is too late, why not remove the islands of concrete and blacktop and realign Miller Avenue along the old traffic pattern?

"It would take guts to do this, but there is something refreshing and human to say, 'we made a mistake. Let us correct it.' "

The proposal for the project arose a couple years ago as a means of improving the safety of the Montford and Miller Avenue intersection.

Gradually, it grew to its present form under the lead of the landscape firm of Sasaki, Walker of Sausalito and the city's former engineering consultants, Bala and Strandgaard of Mill Valley.

One chief gripe about the end product is that it removed the old, familiar middle-of-the-road parking.

That was because state and federal engineers would not fund a project including a parking system in which cars leaving their spaces backed up into the line of traffic, engineer Stanley M. Bala said.

Merchant John Freschl, operator of Jolly King Liquors, complains that the city still could have kept some of the traditional mid-street spaces. "I devised my own plan that would have been a continuation of what we now have. We could have kept half the parking in the middle of the road."

At any rate, state and federal funds paid 70 per cent of the first phase which cost about $130,000.

It's debatable whether similar outside support will pay for the rest of the project, which would run from Willow to Reed streets.

According to City Mgr. Ronald L. Usher, federal funds for traffic improvement now must go through a county priority committee which has been putting Mill Valley projects at the bottom of the list.

The city also has to complete an extension of Sycamore Avenue that would provide better access to the new East Mill Valley Public Safety Building. So any available city traffic funds will be tied up in the Sycamore project first.

Another major problem with Miller is that the new parking bays replace only a fraction of the slots the city once had in the middle of the street.

The city council had hoped to convince local landowners to form an assessment district to buy a new parking lot to replace the lost spaces, but almost no one in the area was interested.

So the city probably will have to fund this project itself. The lot being discussed, an abandoned gas station in the 300 block of Miller, will cost $67,500.

Instead of instantly increasing safety at Montford and Miller, the new project at first caused several minor accidents at that intersection, police said. But since more prominent stop signs have been installed, the situation has improved.

But one Montford Avenue resident still asked angrily at a recent council meeting; "Will you tell me how I'm supposed to get home without holding my breath every time I cross the intersection?"

Then there's the question of whether the project is aesthetically more pleasing than the old Miller.

"There's a big area of asphalt which most of us didn't expect," says Councilman Jean S. Barnard, who reports many critical comments from residents. "One bitter disappointment is the amount of landscaping we're going to have. The final straw was when they laid the asphalt for the bicycle path on the median strips. Now it appears there's only going to be room for trees there."

As if the project wasn't controversial enough, the contractor, E. A. Forde of Greenbrae, took nine months to complete the "improvements," much longer than the city expected.

Whether the city completes the other two blocks of the project depends on how residents adjust to the new system.

"There are people now who say take it out and put it back the way it was, but that seems like an unconscionable waste of money," says Mrs. Barnard. "Others say we should just stop and not complete it. That's their mood, but their attitudes can do nothing but get better at this point. Maybe after the landscaping is in it will change things."

Bay Gasoline Price War Not Reaching Into Marin

A "mini gasoline price war" on the San Francisco side of the Golden Gate Bridge is having little effect on Marin service stations, local operators said today.

Further, most Marin stations probably will not drop their prices to meet San Francisco competition because they are already easily selling their allotments of gasoline, according to Art Baptiste, president of the Marin County Independent Service Station Association.

Baptiste, whose Chevron station in the Northgate area of San Rafael serves many commuters, said he had not noticed any recent dropping off of business.

Gasoline prices all over the country began dropping for the first time in many months in September. Locally, two cuts in price by major wholesalers have been passed on to customers, and regular gasoline that was up as high as 60 cents is down to 53 and 54 cents per gallon in major oil company stations.

Marin dealers explained that they are still under a quota system from the oil companies which are based on a period during which a major gasoline price war raged in San Francisco, attracting customers from Marin. For this reason, Marin dealers have generally low allotments, while many of the San Francisco stations have high quotas.

Pushed by their companies to sell the allotments, the San Francisco stations have dropped their prices temporarily, according to Marin dealers.

A few Marin dealers, though, mainly ones who dod not open their stations enough hours to get rid of their allotments, have temporarily dropped prices to sell their supplies, Baptiste said.

Gary Britton, who operates a Chevron station in San Rafael, said that he has noticed no effect from the San Francisco price situation on his sales. In fact, he said, he had sold his October allotment by last Saturday and now is into the November quota.

Marin dealers said they do not expect the allotment system to be removed in the foreseeable future and said that events in other parts of the country or world may affect prices and supplies at any time.

Judge Dismisses Weapon Charge

A San Rafael man has been acquitted by a Marin Superior Court jury of a charge of assault with a deadly weapon arising from a knifing in his front yard July 16.

The verdict in favor of Kenneth Earl Tatum, 54, came Friday after three days of trial before Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

Tatum was charged with stabbing 19-year-old Gary R. Roe in the abdomen when the San Rafael youth and a friend came to the house after midnight to see the 13-year-old daughter of Tatum's employer, in whose house Tatum lives.

Roe claimed Tatum knifed him without provocation. But Tatum said Roe doubled his fists and came after him.

Marin Tops Median Pay For Teachers

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The median teacher salary in Marin County is the highest in California, according to a new report by the State Department of Education.

The report, covering salaries for the 1973-74 school year, puts the median for Marin County teachers at $14,987. Statewide, the median was $12,903, which was up 7.5 per cent from the preceding year.

The median salary, explained Wilson C. Riles, state superintendent of public instruction, is the statistical midpoint in the salary range, with half of the teachers receiving more and half receiving less.

Among the state's 187,841 full-time teachers, 231 earned less than $7,200 while 26,730 received $16,200 or more, the report said. One-quarter of the teachers received $15,000 or more.

In contrast to the median of $14,987 in Marin, the highest paying county, was a $9,925 median salary in Modoc County, lowest of the 58.

Bar Patron Reports Money Loss

A San Anselmo man has reported losing $4,800 in cash and $250 worth of property after leaving the valuables in a bar in San Rafael.

The money and property were in a sheepskin jacket and pack belonging to George B. Snell III of 4 Angela Court.

According to police, bartender John N. Goveia said two men brought the unattended jacket and pack over to him, saying the things apparently had been left behind by a customer and that there was a lot of money in them.

Shortly after those men left, Goveia said, a third man, about 29 years old, as were the first two, entered saying his wife had left her purse and jacket. Goveia then turned the things over to that man, who also left.

When Snell returned to claim his belongings, Goveia told him what had happened and the police were called.

Rohnert Park Loses Shopping Center Plea

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A Sonoma Superior Court judge yesterday turned down the request of Rohnert Park City Atty. John Flitner to dismiss a suit against Rohnert Park by the City of Santa Rosa and the Santa Rosa Urban Renewal Agency.

Judge Joseph P. Murphy Jr. told attorneys for both sides to appear in court at 9 a.m. Monday to have the suit scheduled for a full hearing.

The suit charges that the environmental impact report prepared for Rohnert Park's planned regional shopping center is inadequate.

Flitner had argued that the suit was improper because it was not filed within 30 days of the city planning commission's July 11 decision to accept the environmental study.

The city plans to allow construction of the center on a large expanse of now open grassland on either side of the Highway 101 — Rohnert Park Expressway interchange north of the city.

Although the Santa Rosa suit challenges the report which found that Rohnert Park's center would have no major adverse environmental impact, Rohnert Park officials say the suit was filed because Santa Rosa and its renewal agency plan to build a large shopping center of their own, and they fear Rohnert Park's center will compete too strongly against it.

Salesman Gets 7 Years In Petaluma Bank Heist

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Insurance salesman Mitchell Evans Spangler has been sentenced to seven years in prison by U.S. District Judge Lloyd H. Burke for robbing a Petaluma bank this summer.

Spangler pleaded guilty on July 26 to the June 7 holdup of the Exchange Bank at 325 East Washington Street.

During the heist, which netted him $13,900, Spangler forced bank manager Howard De Selle to drive him away from the scene at gunpoint. The manager was later released unharmed.

Charges of performing a similar robbery in Ukiah on June 13 were dropped when Spangler agreed to plead to the Petaluma charge.

He told the court he had $2,000 net salary as a salesman for the New York Life Insurance Co. in San Francisco. In 1970, company officials said, Spangler was named the firm's "agent of the year" for his successful sales record. He told the court he turned to crime after accumulating $30,000 in debts.

During his District Court trial Spangler was represented by a public defender.

Judge Burke ordered him to undergo psychiatric treatment at the federal government's Terminal Island facility at Long Beach before beginning his sentence.

Another Prison Inmate Stabbed

Despite a continuing general lockup, a 29-year-old San Quentin inmate was stabbed last night after the evening meal.

The victim, Harry I. Redmon, was reported in fair condition today at the prison hospital.

Prison officials said Redmon, serving a first degree murder sentence from Solano County, suffered two stab wounds in the lower back while he was returning to the East Block from the dining hall. No weapons or suspects have been found, officials said.

It was the 69th stabbing at the prison this year. The attack was the first since a general lockup of inmates began Friday.

School Lists Improvement In Discipline

Discipline problems have decreased significantly in the first weeks of the semester at the Mill Valley Middle School, Principal Claude A. Offenbacher told the district board last night.

Offenbacher said accidents are down, suspensions are less than half what they were at the same time last year and the school's halls are quieter.

He attributed the improvements at the school, which were criticized heavily by parents last spring, to several new programs.

Among them are a new attendance procedure which makes it easier for teachers to keep track of students and a hall pass system which keeps youngsters from wandering the halls without supervision.

At the year's beginning, the administration tried to familiarize students with school rules and expectations, he said, with a special orientation day for incoming sixth graders.

A contest was held to encourage students to propose ideas for improving respect for people and property.

The school also launched a noontime activity program including sewing, arts and crafts, flag football, movies and badminton to keep students occupied.

Also last night, district trustees decided that instead of being automatically suspended for a day, students caught smoking at the school may be assigned to a tobacco education program drawn up by school nurse Marcea Bedayan.

Students still can be suspended if administrators wish, said Supt. Peter Palches. But they instead may be assigned to attend two after-school sessions with the nurse.

The Mill Valley school district board also:

LAYOFFS — Heard that the district must cut back from 167 to 160 teachers in 1975-76 even if voters pass Measure J, which would allow the district to increase the amount of spending per pupil. If the measure does not pass, there must be more extensive redirections in the number of teachers and programs, according to Palches.

PLAYING FIELD — Learned from environmental consultant Nona Dennis, of Madrone Associates of San Rafael, that a new playing field to be built at Tamalpais Valley School by the Tamalpais Community Services District will not degrade a nearby marsh.

MEETING — Agreed to meet Nov. 11 in spite of the Veteran's Day holiday.

Parking Lot Issue Before City Council

The Mill Valley City Council will meet today at 7:30 p.m. at city hall to decide whether to buy an abandoned Miller Avenue service station for a parking lot, according to City Clerk Patricia L. Ostler.

The city attorney will report on legal aspects of the purchase of the lot which would replace parking lost in the Miller Avenue improvement project.

The property in the 300 block of Miller is priced at $65,000.

Food, Atom Cooperation Pledge Told

NEW DELHI (UPI) — The United States and India agreed today to work together "to prevent further deterioration of the world economic structure" and to prevent nuclear energy from being diverted into new nuclear weapons.

A joint U.S.-Indian communique, released on the eve of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger''s departure for Bangladesh, also announced that Prime Minister Indira Gandhi has accepted an invitation to pay an official visit to the United States and that President Ford will visit India in 1975.

The communique focused heavily on deteriorating worldwide economic conditions which both sides called a "serious situation."

Both India and the United States expressed the hope that the World Food Conference in Rome, where Kissinger is to make a major speech Nov. 6, will find "a way of conserving world food stocks and making them available to the most seriously affected developing nations on more favorable terms."

Kissinger conferred throughout the day with India's ministers of defense, agriculture and finance and abruptly canceled a sightseeing visit and a meeting with Foreign Minister Y. B. Chavan to work on his Rome speech.

Today is Tuesday, Oct. 29, the 302nd day of 1974 with 63 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn. The evening star is Jupiter.

American statesman Thomas Bayard was born Oct. 29, 1828.

On this day in history:

In 1618, Sir Walter Raleigh was executed in London, charged with participating in a treasonable plot to oust King James I from the British throne.

In 1901, Leon Czolgosz was electrocuted for the assassination of American President William McKinley.

In 1923, Turkey became a republic.

In 1929, pandemonium reigned on the New York Stock Exchange as collapsing prices set the stage for the great depression of the 1930s.

A thought for the day: American novelist Willa Cather said, "I like trees because they seem more resigned to the way they have to live than other things do."

West opened the four of diamonds, and East took the ace. The diamond return went to dummy's queen, and West could tell that he had no further diamond trick.

Declarer drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and king, and West could tell that he had no trump trick. Business wasn't good.

Then South led a low club.

If West played low, South would finesse with dummy's jack, losing to the queen. He would later lose a second club trick, but then he could discard two hearts on dummy's clubs. In short, South couldn't lose the contract if West played a low club.

Seeing this in advance, West played the ace of clubs. Then he led the nine of hearts through dummy's ace-queen.

If you're looking at the hand in broad daylight, you won't see anything for South to worry about. South should take the heart finesse. If that loses, South must hope that West has the queen of clubs. If that loses also, South must just congratulate West on making a fine club play.

It wasn't broad daylight when the hand was played. South was so sure that the heart finesse was going to lose that he put up the ace of hearts and got to his hand with a trump in order to try a club finesse.

Down one. One of the things that went bump that night was South.

Wishing Pillar Defeats Visitor

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Nancy Kissinger suffered a disappointment yesterday during her visit to the 740-year-old Outab Ainar, a 238-foot-tall Tower of Victory at the southern tip of New Delhi.

While touring the site, the wife of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger stopped to admire a 1,000-year-old iron pillar in the courtyard of the monument.

According to a popular Indian superstition, visitors will have their wishes come true if, standing with their backs to the pillar, they can wrap their two hands around it and make their fingertips touch.

Mrs. Kissinger strained several times to touch her fingertips but failed after several attempts despite her tall figure and long arms. She finally gave up with a sigh.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Children's Bill Of Rights Urges Parents To Be Fair

Several years ago, a British teacher asked 100,000 children (between the ages of 8 and 14) to list the 10 things they would like their parents to do and not do. They represented 12 European countries, North and South America, Australia, and India. After collating the material, he published what I call the children's bill of rights.

THEY ARE as follows:

1. Treat all your children with equal affection.

2. There should be a comradeship between parents and children.

3. Treat your children's friends as welcome visitors in your house.

4. DON'T QUARREL in front of your children.

5. Mutual tolerance should exist between parents and offspring.

6. Never lie to a child.

7. Always answer their questions.

8. Don't blame or punish your child in the presence of others.

9. Be constant in your affection and moods.

10. Concentrate on the good points of a child, not his failings. Children the world over still require (and often want) discipline, even through many parents have lost the ball in this area. And while they thrive on love and encouragement, excesses in material things or permissiveness weakens their character. They must be taught (preferably by example) that there is only one way to do things — the right way.

CHILDHOOD IS a relatively short period that should be enjoyed. To a young boy or girl, the days, weeks and months pass slowly, but this is the way nature intended. To the parents, the child grows up only too quickly.

Loosen the ties that bind, as it will do your child a world of good to play with his peers and to be away from the family from time to time. He'll make a few mistakes along the line, but chances are, he'll learn from them.

SENSITIVE NERVOUS SYSTEM

N. W. writes: Three different physicians have given me the following diagnosis: Autonomic imbalance, neurocirculatory asthenia and hypersensitive vascular system. So much for symptoms. Would you believe, I still have no idea what's the matter?

REPLY

You are high-strung, nervous and, in all probability, you tire easily and develop shortness of breath, even on slight exertion. You were born with a sensitive nervous system that overreacts to stimulants or irritations that seldom bother the average person. Your only hope is to live with your emotional limitations.

BUTTERFLY RASH

S. H. writes: What causes a butterfly-pattern rash on the face?

REPLY

Lupus erythematosus (LE), a disease of the connective tissue. The cause is not known, but some researchers believe that the person is allergic to himself (Hyperimmune reaction). Incidentally, the characteristic butterfly rash over the nose and cheeks is not always present, but LE is suspected when no cause can be found for fever, fatigue and aching.

BABY'S FIRST SMILE

M. L. C. writes: Babies first smile when they are 1 or 2 months old, or so I am told. What makes them smile in their sleep before this age?

REPLY

What seems to be a smile occurs when the corners of the mouth go up. The facial, like other muscles, contract during sleep.

Chavez Released

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Farm labor leader Cesar Chavez has been released from the hospital but will remain in seclusion to continue his recovery from back trouble.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

10:10 a.m., SAUSALITO — Wastebasket fire at post office at 1050 Bridgeway; caused by discarded match; $10 damage.

11:59 a.m., MILL VALLEY — Short circuit caused sparks at electrical transformer at Mill Valley Lumberyard.

3:39 p.m., SAN ANSELMO — Small oven fire, 30 Tamalpais Avenue.

5:25 p.m., SAN ANSELMO — False alarm, San Anselmo and Bell avenues.

6:27 p.m. Overheated furnace, 230 Fawn Drive.

KGO (7), KNTV (11), 8:30 p.m. — Frank Langella stars in the dual role of Don Diego and Zorro in the story of the dashing avenger of the oppressed people in early California, which will be retold in television's first production of the swashbuckling movie classic "The Mark of Zorro."

KGO (7), KNTV (11), 11:30 p.m. — A rest stop at a dingy roadside diner in the boiling desert leads to a terrifying ordeal for a woman when her husband mysteriously disappears in the washroom and her search for him is thwarted by two sinister men, in "Dying Room Only," a "Wide World of Entertainment" mystery presentation.

Cigarette Costs To Rise; Wholesale Prices Hiked

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cigarette prices apparently are heading up a penny or two a pack again. Two major manufacturers, R. J. Reynolds and Lorillard division of Loew's Corp. have announced price hikes.

Reynolds, which makes Winston, Salem, Camel, Doral and Vantage, raised wholesale prices 50 cents a thousand.

Lorillard, which makes Kent, Old Gold, Newport and True, raised the price 70 cents a thousand.

The major cigarette producers raised wholesale prices 70 cents a thousand last May.

A Lorillard official said yesterday a rise of 70 cents in the wholesale price is sufficient to cause an increase of 1 to 2 cents a pack in the retail price.

Corte Madera Plan Hearing Nov. 13

The public hearing on the Corte Madera general plan scheduled for tonight has been moved to Nov. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in Corte Madera town hall.

The hearing was to discuss the introduction and wrap-up of the plan, but all updated material is not yet available, according to Betty Behel, town clerk.

Funding Occupies TV Debate Time

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Insinuations of questionable fund raising have been thrust once again into the campaign for governor.

The occasion was the fifth and next-to-last debate between rival candidates Houston I. Flournoy and Edmund G. Brown Jr., an encounter supposedly reserved for discussion of environmental issues.

During the 30-minute television taping yesterday, Democrat Brown and Republican Flournoy brought forth little new as they attacked each other's environmental record. But they branched aggressively into fresh attacks on campaign contributions involving $50,000 apiece.

Flournoy, the two-term state controller, said donations of $50,000 had been solicited for Brown by William Grader, a Fort Bragg fisherman and the husband of Geraldine Grader, who sits on the North Coast Regional Coastline Commission.

The assertion followed previous charges between the candidates that members of coastline commissions, who have vast authority over coastal development, were improperly involved in campaign fund raising.

Brown dismissed the charge, calling Grader "a small part in the overall (campaign) effort." The 36-year-old Democratic secretary of state said the solicited contributions did not total $50,000, but between $14,000 and $15,000.

He in turn accused Flournoy of "capitulating" to oil companies and "other interests whose aim is to make their profits at the expense of the beauty of California."

Brown said Flournoy received "enormous" campaign contributions — $161,000 worth — from oil companies or persons directly connected with the petroleum industry.

Holding a copy of his opponent's official state campaign spending report before the cameras, Brown specifically questioned $50,000 loaned Flournoy from Crocker National Bank, and demanded to know who guaranteed the loan.

"Who is the secret person who stands behind that loan?" Brown quizzed. "It just may be a director of an oil company. I'd like you to explain it."

Flournoy did not answer the question during the taping. He said it was "typical innuendo" for Brown to make some new charge or raise some "obscure" question in the final moments of their debate.

Later, Flournoy told reporters he believed the loan was secured by David Packard, a frequent contributor to GOP causes, a former Nixon administration official and a director of Standard Oil.

The session was taped for viewing locally tomorrow night by San Francisco television station KPIX. Each candidate was allowed opening remarks, rebuttal and a closing. There were no outside questions.

Both men spoke out for environmental safeguards.

Brown expressed concern for saving the natural beauty of the state for enjoyment should the day come — he suggested the year 2000 — when California becomes a "plexiglass society."

He deplored what he said was the current "cement mixer" mentality of land development.

Flournoy made his theme "striking a balance" between ecology and a controlled utilization of California resources.

They differed sharply on Prop. 17, an initiative on the statewide ballot designed to block construction of the New Melones Dam on the Stanislaus River in order to protect an upstream of white water for rafting.

Brown, who had made rafting trips down the river, reiterated his support for the ballot measure. Flournoy repeated his opposition, saying the dam would be needed to provide agricultural water for growing food demands.

However, Flournoy announced that if elected he would abide by the popular will and fight construction of the dam if Prop. 17 was approved.

MARIN CATHOLIC CANDIDATES

Candidates Rapped By Auditor General

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The offices of Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. and Controller Houston I. Flournoy, rival gubernatorial candidates, have come under criticism from the state auditor general.

Auditor General Harvey Rose yesterday issued a report saying Flournoy's office failed to collect an estimated $3.6 million due the state from California's eight largest banks on unclaimed accounts since 1968.

In another report, Rose said Brown's office has failed to obtain required information statements from 15 per cent of California corporations, resulting in the state losing $192,000 in filing fees this year and last year.

Flournoy and Brown had differing interpretations of Rose's report on the controller's office.

Flournoy said the auditor general's findings support his contentation that the controller's office left only about $3.6 million uncollected from banks instead of the $60 million to $100 million Brown and other critics had charged.

The controller said the report shows that Brown's charges about the state's loss "have been based on gross exaggeration or disregard of the facts." He said Brown should apologize not only to him but to "the people he misled by his charges."

But Doug Fagin, a spokesman for Democrat Brown, said the report "did not contradict but substantiates" Brown's charges that the state lost an amount "far greater" than $3.6 million.

Fagin pointed out Rose's figure was based on a survey of eight of the more than 100 banks in California and the auditor general had concluded that banks had underpaid the state "an undetermined amount of monies" from 1959 through 1973. Rose said the total amount of underpayment could not be estimated because of lack of adequate records.

The $3.6 million figure "is only the tip of the iceberg," said Fagin, adding the report "clearly shows Flournoy has been an ineffective and inept administrator of the controller's office."

Rose's report said the $3.6 million in underpayments resulted from "ineffective enforcement by the office of state controller of the unclaimed property law."

The unclaimed funds — savings accounts, money orders, checking accounts and others — go to the state under the law after a specified period. But banks withhold interest and impose service charges, a practic critics contend shortchanges the state by millions each year.

The report noted that Flournoy Sept. 24 issued an emergency regulation designed to prevent the underpayment and it said the regulation "substantially resolves" the issue. But a Sacramento County Superior Court judge Friday blocked enforcement of the regulation because it was adopted without a public hearing.

Rose, hired by the Democratic-controlled legislature, recommended the controller's office take steps to recover the funds from the eight banks and, "to the extent possible," from other determined underpayments from all banks.

Rose said Brown's office of secretary of state did not obtain the information statements from 32,000 corporation, costing the state about $96,000 annually in filing fees for 1973 and this year.

He also said the state archives, within the secretary of state's office, has "not effectively met its statutory responsibilities" for maintaining historical materials due to a lack of adequate personnel and facilities.

"As a result," the report said, "historical documents are being maintained without adequate protection against deterioration, and there is an increasing backlog of unprocessed historical material ... Moreover, the state's historical effort is uncoordinated and decentralized."

Advanced First Aid Course Set

A Red Cross advanced first aid course — for both the public and for those regularly responsible for giving emergency care to the sick and injured — begins Nov. 12 at the Marin Red Cross Chapter, 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

The three-month course will be held each Tuesday and Thursday from 7:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. The cost is $5.

Registration must be made at the Red Cross prior to the first class, according to instructor Robert A. LaFlamme.

Board To Eye Major Hub Schools Shifts

The San Anselmo School District Board, faced with a recommendation that the district make sweeping shifts in its network of school sites and facilities, will meet at 8 p.m. today to consider the proposal.

The meeting will be held at the Isabel Cook School multipurpose room, rather than the regular Red Hill School board chambers, since an overflow crowd is expected, according to the schools administration.

At issue is a proposal by a citizens committee that the district shut down Isabel Cook and Yolansdale schools while converting Red Hill Junior High to an elementary school and expanding Hidden Valley Junior High.

The committee's recommendations, made this month after more than a year of study, are based for the most part on an extensive survey of district families.

Committee recommendations coincide with majority wishes as reflected in the survey, aside from the recommendation that Hidden Valley School be the site of the lone junior high school. Only 20 per cent of parents surveyed favored that proposal.

Supt. Frank R. Elliott has said that the moves suggested by the committee would result in financial savings for the hard-pressed district, and has pledged to have figures available tonight.

Demos Retort To Charges Leveled By Republicans

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Democrats have begun to reply sharply to political charges leveled recently by President Ford and other Republicans.

Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., yesterday called the GOP charge that Democrats are big spenders "the lie of 1974 — like 'law and order' of 1970 and 'busing' of 1972."

"It is a chorus orchestrated across the country by the Republican high command in Washington to cover up six dismal years of Republican failure and Republican misrule," Stevenson told a luncheon meeting of GOP precinct captains in Chicago.

He said the Democratic-controlled Congress has cut $7.6 billion from the Nixon-Ford budget so far this year, "and if I had my way the cut would be larger."

Ford, who was to campaign today in his House congressional district for Republican candidate Paul Goebel Jr., has criticized Democrats for wanting to spend too much and blamed them for inflation during recent campaign swings through the Midwest.

Ford has also warned in campaign appearances that Democrats must not be allowed to elect a "veto-proof" Congress in November — one in which Democrats would command two-thirds voting strength to override presidential vetoes.

Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., said in Las Vegas yesterday: "There is no such thing as a veto-proof Congress. This is simply political hocus pocus designed to divert the attention from the problems of the economy.

"What he really wants is a rubber stamp Congress, people he can control," Byrd said.

Byrd called for sizable budget cuts in programs other than those which help people. He said Ford should ask for standby rationing authority and ease tight money policies. He called Ford a "lame duck President" and said he should get new advisers "because he still has the same ones around him."

Ford's afternoon trip to his home town, Grand Rapids, Mich., today is designed to build support for Goebel, the long-time state Republican leader who is trying to win Ford's old congressional seat back from a Democrat.

Democrat Richard F. VanderVeen won the seat in a special election after Ford became vice president. His campaign slogan then capitalized on Watergate: "Put Jerry Ford in the White House." He was the first Democrat to win the seat in 64 years.

Policemen Due Armored Vests

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Board of Supervisors appropriated $200,000 yesterday to buy bullet-resistant vests for policemen.

The $100 vests will be purchased for each of the city's 2,000 policemen.

INFLATION, NOT HALLOWEEN

Ellen Catalinoto says she wears a skeleton costume because she faces starvation due to high food prices, not because of Halloween. She was among several members of the consumer-oriented Women United for Action, who wore president Ford's WIN buttons and chanted against Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz when he spoke at a frozen food manufacturer's gathering yesterday in New York.

Hunt Admits Lies, Denies Blackmailing White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — E. Howard Hunt Jr. denied under bitter cross-examination today that he had blackmailed or extorted the White House in his demands for money during the Watergate cover-up.

William O. Hundley, attorney for former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, pressed Hunt repeatedly and asked him whether it was true that assistant Watergate prosecutor Richard Ben-Veniste had asked him to commit perjury at the trial of Mitchell and four other former associates of Richard M. Nixon.

Hunt, acknowledged mastermind of the 1971 Ellsberg and 1972 Watergate break-ins, testified late yesterday that he decided to tell the truth about Watergate after a reading of the transcripts of the White House tapes convinced him "these men were not worth my continued loyalty."

"Besides protecting these people, you were also blackmailing them?" Hundley asked.

"At no time," Hunt, who with his wife had received more than $100,000 in cash during the cover-up period, said.

"At no time?" Hundley said.

"No, sir," Hunt said.

"You don't consider your comments to disclose 'seamy' things you had done for the White House, you don't consider that blackmail?"

"No, sir."

"What do you consider it — investment planning?" Hundley asked.

"I consider it in the nature of a bill collector," Hunt said.

"You don't consider selling your silence"

"No, sir," Hunt said. "That is a different matter."

Hunt provided the four-week-old trial with its most dramatic moments yesterday when he said he lied 12 times to the Watergate grand jury, but now has decided to tell the truth because others involved "were not worthy of my ... loyalty."

Still hammering away at Hunt's demands for money, Hundley asked him to explain exactly how he understood it.

"A reiteration of the requests for the keeping of commitments a long time prior," Hunt said. "I was being as forceful as I could. I was attempting to collect long overdue bills."

"How about extortion, was it that?" Hundley asked.

"No, sir, I consulted counsel on this," he replied. "It was neither blackmail nor extortion."

"If these people had met your demands, would your testimony still be that they were not worth protecting?" Hundley asked.

"You're asking, of course for a highly subjective judgment on my part..." Hunt began.

"Absolutely," Hundley interrupted.

"Certainly," Hunt said, "at the time I read the transcripts of the White House tapes, I felt a rude awakening. I heard the President's (Nixon's) contemptuous references to those who had gone to prison as 'idiots and jackasses.'

"I realized that there had been wild scrambling for months in the White House to protect themselves and very little thought had ever been given to our plight, much less to money which was the easiest thing for them to give to ease our burden."

William S. Frates, lawyer for defendant John D. Ehrlichman, elicited from Hunt an admission that he once told the prosecutors that former White House counsel John W. Dean "cooked up the scheme" for him to flee the country after the Watergate arrests.

Dean testifed last week that he merely relayed the order, wtich came from Ehrlichman, then No. 2 aide in the White House.

Hunt told earlier of the death of his wife Dorothy, also an alleged co-conspirator in the Watergate cover-up. She was killed Dec. 8, 1972, in a jet crash near Chicago's Midway Airport

Twelve times Ben-Veniste read portions of Hunt's grand jury testimony in early 1973, and 12 times Hunt admitted in one word that his testimony had been "false" or "evasive."

"Did there come a time you decided to tell the truth?" Ben Veniste asked.

"While I was in prison. I realized that due to the increasing furor over Watergate the White House could do nothing for me. And that was the situation I accepted. In January I was released from prison, not due to any intervention or favoritism on the part of the White House or the executive branch but solely due to the judicial process itself. I immediately began to reconstruct my life. I tried to put as much of this unpleasantness in the far reaches of my mind as I could.

"In the spring of this year I began to read the White House tapes. I felt a sense of rude awakening. I realized these men were not worthy of my continued and future loyalty. I did nothing about my testimony (in which he had lied before the grand jury). It was in my own self interest to leave the situation as it was.

"In the early summer I received a subpoena to testify at this trial. I was faced with the hard decision — whether I should continue to lie to protect others or to tell the truth once and for all. My attorneys urged me to make a full revelation.

"I sensed even my own children were not fully persuaded my testimony in all respects was factual and candid. As a result of all these facts I resolved to make the hard decision to testify to the entire truth."

"Have you done so today?" Ben-Veniste said. "I have," Hunt said.

Hunt testified as a "court witness," a procedure allowing both sides to cross-examine him. Jeb Stuart Magruder, former Nixon campaign deputy diector, now in prison, was scheduled to follow him on the stand.

Trio Draws Probation In Gun Case

A Marin Municipal Court judge today imposed probation, work sentences and a curfew — but no jail time — on three 18-year-old youths who fired shotguns at a Marin City crowd.

Judge David R. Baty ordered identical sentences for the trio: Two years' probation and 52 days of work for the County Parks and Recreation Department.

The judge also ordered Peter Wick Howes and Michael Guy Bickers of Kentfield and Donald Joseph Willin of San Rafael to take part in counseling, vocational and educational programs as ordered by the probation department.

In addition, they must be home by 9 o'clock each night for the next year.

The three cut short their trial last month with guilty pleas to misdemeanor charges of brandishing a weapon, and Judge Baty promised they would get a maximum of 90 days in jail.

Sheriff's deputies arrested them in June on reports they drove into Marin City and began firing blasts from two shotguns at a crowd of residents gathered outside a coffee shop.

Chronology Of Nixon's Ailments

LONG BEACH (UPI) — The phlebitis that led to former President Richard Nixon's urgent surgery today goes back to 1965. His ailment developed like this:

1965 —"First began to have symptoms in this leg in 1965 ..." during a visit to Japan, Dr. Wiley Barker, professor of surgery, UCLA school of medicine, said at a news conference this year.

June 1974 —"Serious symptoms developed ...," Barker said, while on middle East tour. Nixon's leg began swelling while in Russia.

Aug. 9 —Nixon resigns presidency.

Sept. 10 —Dr. John C. Lungren visits Nixon at Walter Annenberg estate in Palm Springs. Apparently at this time a small clot lodged in Nixon's right lung was detected.

Sept. 12 —"He can't relax ... he can't unwind ... he is not feeling well," son-in-law David Eisenhower told reporters.

Sept. 13 —Dr. Walter Tkach, former White House physician, and Lungren visit Nixon in San Clemente. Nixon refuses Tkach's appeal to enter hospital, saying, "If I go into the hospital, I'll never come out alive."

Sept. 17 —Julie Nixon Eisenhower says in New York that her father would enter the hospital "within a few weeks."

Sept. 23 —First hospitalization at Long Beach Memorial for tests on "chronic phlebitis in an acute phase."

Sept. 25 —Lungren announces "potentially dangerous" clot has traveled to the lung. A "silent embolism" is discovered in lung, treated with anticoagulant drugs.

Oct. 4 —Nixon is released from hospital after 11 days. He returns to San Clemente "worse than when he first came in," according to Lungren.

Oct. 5-22 —Lungren visits Nixon twice in San Clemente.

Oct. 23 —"Inadequate" response to treatment at home. Nixon enters Long Beach Memorial for second hospitalization. A venogram is ordered. Discovers more "defects or blockages of blood vessels."

Oct. 27 —Lungren announces almost total obstruction of vein in Nixon's left leg.

Oct. 28 —Lungren announces discovery of yet another large clot, in left hip, and schedules "urgent surgery" for Tuesday.

Oct. 29 —Five-man surgery team inserts permanent plastic clip across iliac vein in left groin area to block spread of blood clots. Lungren says operation was "uneventful" and a "success."

Strain Took Toll On Nixon's Health

WASHINGTON (UPI) — During his White House years, his doctors said Richard M. Nixon was the healthiest President in recent years.

But Watergate, with its two years of mental and physical stress and strain, took its toll on Nixon's health.

During his first term Nixon underwent a physical examination at the National Naval Medical Center annually. During each of those four years, Maj. Gen. Walter Tkach, Nixon's personal physician, described him as being "in excellent condition."

Tkach, however, always worried about Nixon's refusal to take vacations and his seeming inability to relax. Tkach kept urging Nixon to get away from his worries more often, with long walks on the beach and daily swimming.

Nixon's first illness in the White House occurred in July, 1973 when the Watergate cover-up began to unravel. Nixon was rushed to the Naval Medical Center in Bethesda, Md., suffering from viral pneumonia.

He remained in the hospital for more than a week and when he returned to the White House, instead of taking more time to convalesce, he plunged back into his presidential duties and told a welcome home gathering in the Rose Garden he "would let others wallow in Watergate."

Later that summer, White House aides publicly conceded Nixon was "under tension" and strain because of the Watergate revelations.

That statement came after Nixon shoved Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler in New Orleans at a gathering of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The incident was witnessed by millions of television viewers.

In June, Nixon suffered a recurrence of the phlebitis that had dogged him on and off since 1965. The blood clot in his left leg was detected by his doctors when he was in Brussels en route to the Middle East.

Despite warnings from his doctors that he was courting perhaps a "fatal" attack if he persisted in making the summit visit to the Arab world, Nixon insisted on continuing the journey and ordered his doctors and aides to keep his illness a secret.

Reporters observed Nixon limping during his travels in the Middle East and later during the Moscow summit journey but the White House doctors remained silent on the subject of the phlebitis attack.

Only after a reporter broke the story did Nixon's aides confirm that he was suffering from phlebitis, but then quoted Tkach as saying that the clot was "fixed" and that there was no major health problem.

And it was only later that Tkach disclosed Nixon had a "thrombal phlebitis" attack more serious than his aides had previously described.

Through Nixon's last days in the White House, Tkach insisted the President was not on medication. However, other aides indicated Nixon sank deep into depression as his options narrowed to remain in office.

During the last few days of his presidency, Nixon remained isolated. On the evening of Aug. 8, a short while before he announced his decision to resign, Nixon broke down in tears when he told political friends and supporters of the impending announcement.

Then, early today, Nixon underwent surgery in Long Beach, in an effort to break up the clotting that threatened his circulation.

Mob Scene Erupts In Harison Ticket Line

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Tickets for a George Harrison concert went on sale yesterday at a Memphis Coliseum and triggered a rush in which a glass door was cracked, one young woman fainted and several other persons received minor injuries.

Police said more than 500 persons stormed the coliseum when doors were opened at 9 a.m. Police halted sales for the former Beatle's Nov. 27 concert to restore order.

A Good Question For Trivia Buffs

Some of the most interesting items in newspapers are those little one paragraph things on the bottom of pages, those mini-stories called fillers.

Trivia buffs can collect them and store away the information for later telling. One of those fillers sent the other day to this office by United Press International was particularly interesting and foeced me to check it out.

Question: Who was the New York Yankees' right fielder before Babe Ruth?

Would you believe George Halas, founder of the Chicago Bears who played, coached and owned the team? If you got it right, you deserve a gold star. Most of us didn't even realize Halas ever played major league baseball.

I went to the Baseball Encyclopedia to prove the story out and sure enough, there was George Stanley Halas, born Feb. 2, 1895 in Chicago. The same George S. Halas who is chairman of the board for the Bears, at age 79.

Halas played major league baseball for one season, 1919, and appeared in 12 games. He had two hits in 22 at bats for a .091 lifetime average. Hitting like that, it's no wonder he got out of baseball the next year, 1920, to become player-coach of the Bears.

The Babe played for the Boston Red Sox from 1914 through 1919 and was a pitcher much of that time. He was traded to the Yankees for the 1920 season and immediately took over the right field job. Halas had played briefly at right field the previous season, so that item was correct, he was the Yanks' right fielder before Ruth. At least for a few days.

MIKE GERARD of Terra Linda, the 14-year-old archer who collects bull's-eyes like so many grains of sugar, is back from the Pacific Coast championships in Sacramento with a silver medal.

Gerard, a freshman at Terra Linda High, was competing against some of the best archers in North America, including the entire Canadian Olympic team, in the bow and arrow action Saturday and Sunday. Mike scored 1,262 points, highest ever by a 14-year-old in his caliber competition, and it was just four points less than the winner, Ed Eliason of Seattle, a member of the U.S. Olympic team.

Jim Hamilton, a Terra Linda freshman who lives across the street from the Gerards, won the junior division in the Sacramento matches.

Beating the Canadian Olympians was especially rewarding for Gerard because he has set his goal to make the 1976 U.S. Olympic team. He already holds the national junior title, won last August at the U.S. National Outdoor Target archery championships at Oxford, Ohio.

READERS of the Terra Linda News, San Rafael Pointer and Ross Valley Reporter might have been wondering how much that ad cost which said, "I QUIT! 25-year 49er ticket-holder throws in the towel." The two column by four-inch ad for the pair of 35-yard line seats was put in by season ticket holder Stuart Strong, publisher of the News and Pointer. So the cost of the ad, you see, was zero.

MOVE IT, REF — Referee Wally Harris had to climb the wall to avoid the action last night in a National Hockey League game between the California Golden Seals and the Islanders in New York. John Stewart (17) and Larry Patey (9) of the Seals fought New York's Bill Harris for the puck. The Islanders won, 10-1.

'Crown Is Vacant When Bell Rings'

Foreman Believes This Going Into Bout Tonight

KINSHASA, Zaire (UPI) — "I will consider the title vacant the moment the bell rings," George Foreman, the heavyweight champion said yesterday "The title belongs to the man who can win it — and hold it."

In a few short hours (7 p.m. PST) Muhammad Ali will meet Foreman in the center of the ring here with the world title, stripped from Ali in 1967 for his refusal to accept the draft, now for one last time within his reach.

Foreman, the 25-year-old native of Houston, Texas., is an 14-5 choice to successfully defend his title against the 32-year-old Ali, the most celebrated fighter in modern times.

Ali has said he will whisper something into Foreman's ear while they meet with the officials in center ring — something he claims will make George "scared as hell."

Ali began fighting Foreman six months ago, with words. Now he must fight him with his aging legs and jabs, while fending off the sledge hammer blows that have brought the unbeaten champion through 40 straight victories, with an awe-some total of 37 knockouts.

Greatest of course was his two round demolition of Joe Frazier in January, 1973, a victory almost as great as Ali's own coronation in February 1964, a seventh round knockout of Sonny Liston.

Since he gained the Olympic light heavy title in Rome in 1960, Ali, then known as Cassius Clay, has been expert in and out of the ring.

His tactics include psychological war, which served him well against many, but which has had little effect on Foreman, just as it had little on Frazier when Joe won a brutal 15-round decision over Ali in March of 1971.

But Ali is the greatest drawing card in ring history not only because of his fighting ability inside the ropes, but also because of his public image.

Among the approximately 64,000 expected in the Stadium in the predawn hour of 4 a.m. tomorrow, will be a host of Zairians who have never seen a fight before, but who are aware that these two black "brothers" will each get $5 million for their efforts — win or lose.

To the Zairians, the fight is a festival, brought to their land by President Mobutu Sese Seko to draw attention to Zaire and invite foreign investments in its rich, untapped resources.

To the rest of the world, the fight can mark the passing of an era should Foreman win, or acceptance of Muhammad Ali as one of the very greatest, if not the greatest, of all heavyweight champions.

Beamed via satellite, the bout will be shown to more than 400 pay-tv outlets in the United States and Canada where the going prices range from $15 to $30 dollars, and where the promoters trust they will make up the heart of the $30-million production costs.

In almost 100 other countries — notably Japan and Europe — home television will swell the potential viewers throughout the globe to over a million.

Each man, win or lose, will collect $5-million dollars for his effort in the richest event in the history of the ring.

UNABLE TO WIN ON ROAD

Seals Start NHL Season Same Way Last One Ended

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — The California Golden Seals are starting this National Hockey League season the way they ended the last one — unable to win on the road.

The New York Islanders hit a scoring high for their club, now in its third season, when they beat California 10-1 last night to hand the Seals their fifth straight road loss.

Ed Westfall and Bill MacMillan each made three goals for New York. MacMillan got two in the third period when the Islanders rattled the Seals' cage with 20 shots and scored four. Westfall got two of his three in the second period which produced four New York goals from 17 shots on goal.

The Islanders now top their division with a 6-1-1 record. They finished dead last the past two years, winning just 31 of 156 games.

The Seals, meanwhile, are 2-6-3 and still looking for their first victory on the road where they have one tie and six losses.

The Oakland club has given up 52 goals so far this season, far worse than the defensive record of the expansion Kansas City Scouts and Washington Capitals.

Game Balls Awarded To Harris, Holmes

Steelers' Triumph Is Spearheaded By Pair

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Steelers awarded game balls last night to running back Franco Harris, who already has a fan club, and to defensive tackle Ernie "Arrowhead" Holmes, who says he's going to form one.

Harris' 141 yards on 28 carries, both career highs, were instrumental in leading the Steelers to a 24-17 victory over the Atlanta Falcons in a nationally televised National Football League game.

Holmes had four unassisted tackles, seven assists and sacked Atlanta quarterback Bob Lee twice as Pittsburgh's brutal "Steel Curtain" defense sealed the Falcons' doom. In all, Lee was sacked seven times — a Steeler record — as Pittsburgh increased its leagueleading sacks to 29 for the year.

It was a clutch 29-yard pass on third down from Terry Bradshaw, starting for the first time this season, to Harris on the first play of the fourth period that set up what proved to be the winning touchdown. Three plays later, Harris went seven yards for the score.

"I haven't been happy alternating and I think Coach (Chuck) Noll got the message, but it wasn't me that told him," said Harris, who found himself with an Italian Army fan club after a brilliant rookie season three years ago. "Basically, we ran a lot more and that was our game plan. If we beat a team on the ground, we beat them physically. We know we took the game to them and that's what football is all about."

L. C. Greenwood sacked Lee three times and Joe Greene and Andy Russell also trapped the Atlanta quarterback once as Pittsburgh's defense turned in a solid performance.

Holmes, with the hair on his head shaved in the shape of an arrow, said afterward that he would form an Ernie "Arrowhead" Holmes fan club on the basis of his personally satisfying performance.

"It's for my personal identity," Holmes said of his unusual hair style. "It's something I did after the Houston game (Oct. 6) to get my mind positive on what my goal was, to go straight ahead. I shave the front of my head, my brother shaves the back and I go to a barber once in a while to have it trimmed."

But Atlanta almost denied Pittsburgh the opportunity to improve its record to 5-1-1 and move 1 ½ games ahead of Cincinnati in the American Football Conference Central Division. The loss dropped Atlanta to 2-5 and into a tie with San Francisco in the National Football Conference West.

Pittsburgh jumped into a 14-0 lead the first two times it handled the ball on a 10-yard touchdown run by Rocky Bleier and on a one-yard dive by Bradshaw, who had had one completion and one interception on two attempts while previously backing up former starting quarterback Joe Gilliam.

But Lee tied the game 14-14 in the second period on touchdown passes of nine yards to Al Dodd and 24 yards to Ken Burrow. Then Roy Gerela, despite an injured leg, once more pushed Pittsburgh into the lead with a 33-yard field goal in the third period.

But even after Harris' winning touchdown, Atlanta threatened to send the prime time game into overtime by narrowing it to 24-17 on a 32-yard field goal by Nick Mike-Mayer.

FINAL SCORE — Steelers' running back Franco Harris dragged linebacker Ken Mitchell of the Atlanta Falcons into the end zone as he scored Pittsburgh's final touchdown last night in Three Rivers Stadium. The touchdown iced a 24-17 victory for the Steelers.

Only Phillips Is Out For Season

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI) — Coach Dick Nolan said seven San Francisco 49ers were hurt Sunday in the loss to Oakland but apparently only one injury was serious.

Strong safety Mel Phillips will be lost for the season with a broken left arm — his third in 10 months — and will probably undergo surgery later this week. Windlan Hall will be shifted to that position with Mike Holmes operating at free safety.

But the good news was that halfback Wilbur Jackson's injured knee did not sustain cartilage damage and he should be ready for the Los Angeles Rams Monday night.

Right guard Woody Peoples, with a sprained ankle, was listed as questionable for the Rams, Nolan said, "but right now I think he may be ready."

So will defensive back Bruce Taylor (concussion), defensive tackle Bill Belk (sprained), offensive tackle Keith Fahnhorst (bruised thigh) and tight end Tom Mitchell (shoulder bruise).

And quarterback Steve Spurrier, who separated his shoulder in the final pre-season game against Los Angeles, might be ready for some limited action. The 49er quarterback situation has been a disaster area since Spurrier's injury — until last week.

First the 49ers obtained a proven veteran in Norm Snead from the New York Giants and then rookie Tom Owen looked sharp in the 35-24 loss to the Raiders as he hit 15-of-26 for two touchdowns and two interceptions.

"Owen showed a lot of poise," Nolan said. "He ran the club pretty well. Norm was on the phone and just seeing what was taking place on the field, learning our coverages."

The 49ers, now 2-5 have won only once and tied once in their last 14 meetings with the Rams, who lead the conference with a 5-2 mark.

San Rafael Gets Tuneup Win In Cross Country

SAN FRANCISCO — San Rafael High School took seven of the first nine places yesterday to defeat St. Ignatius and Lowell in a non-league cross country meet at Golden Gate Park.

The Bulldogs posted 18 points to 56 for S.I. and 84 for Lowell in their final tuneup for tomorrow's Marin County Athletic League showdown against Redwood.

Ray Green led the assault by running the 2.6 mile race in 12:59 — the fourth fastest time ever recorded on the course. Steve Roberts finished second, Jim Coughlin fourth, Tom O'Reilly fifth, Bill Hoffman sixth, Brian McGuire seventh and Brooke Chestnut ninth for the Bulldogs.

In the frosh-soph event, St. Ignatius won with 24 points, to 33 for San Rafael and 101 for Lowell. Phil Bennett, a resident of San Rafael, paced S.I. by winning, Mike O'Reilly of San Rafael was second.

McGill To Highlight Goal Rushers Meet

Defensive back Ralph McGill will be guest speaker for the 49er Goal Rushers of Marin tomorrow night at the booster club's meeting at Holiday Inn in Terra Linda.

The meeting gets under way at 7 p.m. with films of the 1971 49er highlights and a collection of football bloopers put to music. McGill will answer questions from fans beginning at 8 o'clock.

Golden Gate Fields Officials Deny 1975 Racing Is In Jeopardy

ALBANY, Calif. (UPI) — Golden Gate Fields denied yesterday that its 1975 racing season was in jeopardy because of a concessionaire operation.

"We have adhered to the wishes of the California Horse Racing Board and have replaced Golden Gate Sportservice with our own subsidiary, Hillside Catering Co.," said Melville Marx, vice president and secretary of the Tanforan Racing Association.

Marx said the 1975 Pacific racing season would start as scheduled on Feb. 7 and the Tanforan on April 29.

The board had informed Golden Gate Fields in October that SportsService — the concessionaire named in Pacific Racing Association's 1975 license application — was "disqualified from acting as concessionaire" for Pacific or Tanforan at the Albany racetrack, according to attorney Edward W. Rosston.

Rosston, who represents Bay Area Sports Enterprises (BASE), which controls Pacific and Tanforan racing associations, said the board's order was based on the affiliation with Emprise Corp., Buffalo, N.Y., a concern run by the L. M. Jacobs family.

Emprise was convicted in April, 1972, of "conspiracy and interstate transportation in aid of racketeering." The conviction is on appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

"The order further ordered Emprise to dispose of its 11 per cent stock holdings in BASE within three years and place the stock in a non-voting trust until they sell it," said Rosston.

"On Oct. 9, after receiving the board's order, Pacific amended its 1975 racing application to nominate Hillside Catering as its concessionaire. The amendment carried out the

FISH AND GAME

Trophy Trout In Mystery Lake

After futilely hunting around Webber Lake these past few days, my wife and I decided to explore some new country. There's a sign at Webber that reads, "Graniteville, 23 miles;" we decided to take the drive, though everyone around there said the road was a rough one.

We left Webber, driving downward on the west side of the Sierra crest where the buck season is still open. After about seven miles, we came to Jackson Reservoir. We didn't meet a car. Jackson looked good for fishing — lots of campsites around the lake — but no one in sight fishing, so we didn't try it.

ANOTHER EIGHT or 10 miles and we came to Bowman Lake. It really looked fishy, but again no one in sight, so we didn't try that lake either. We met a U.S. Forestry Service worker there and asked about the bucks. He said they were pretty scarce, but that he had validated one that morning. The area looked like good deer country, and we saw two deer, both yearlings along the roadway.

After that, we finally reached Graniteville. It was 24 miles from Webber and took us two hours to make the trip. The road was rocky and rough.

Graniteville is some town! The road goes right through the middle of it with probably 10 houses on each side. Unique houses which look to be 100 years old. The one store with its gas pump was closed. Gas was 68c per gallon. The road was paved through the one block of the town. Five of the residents live there the year around. Pictures of the area in the winter were pinned to the town's bulletin board. The snow in the photos was 10 foot high! A sign there gave directions to Grass Valley and Highway 20 another 25 miles or so down the mountain. It was quite a picturesque place and we felt it was worth the ride.

WE TOOK a different route to Webber on the way back. We passed one lake called Catfish, but saw no fish rising here either. Then we saw another small lake called Tollhouse, though the toll man wasn't there; I guess he had migrated out for the winter. We got out of the car and three mallards got up, which we hadn't seen, within easy range. We just weren't on the ball.

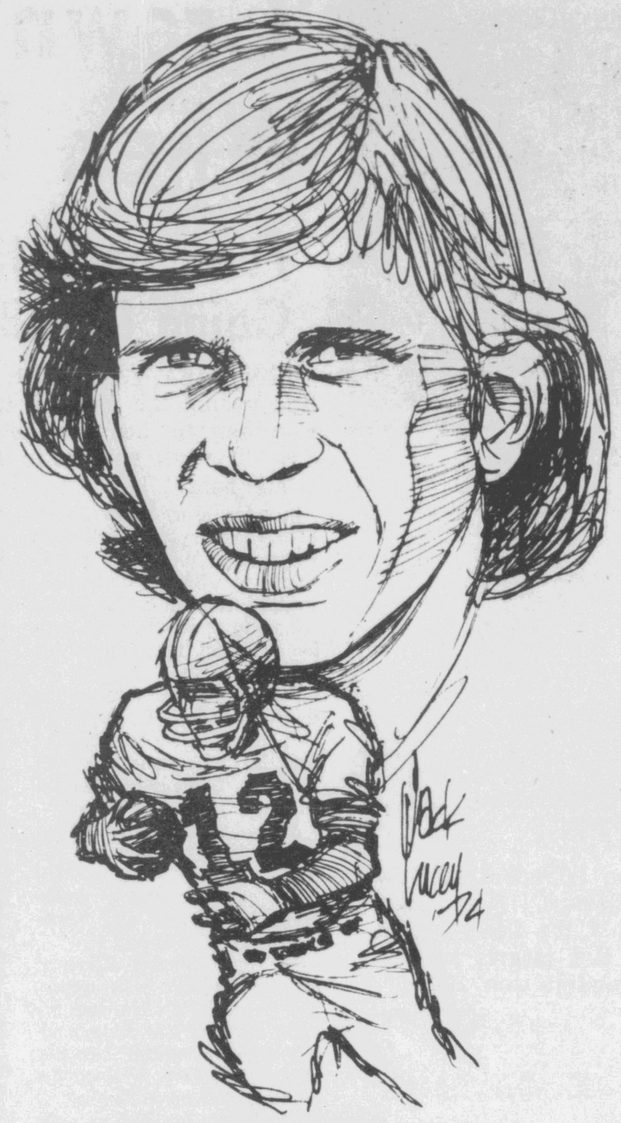
Then our luck broke. We came to another small lake and we saw a little old man and a lady fishing. Being the only outdoors people we had encountered along the entire route, we decided to check them out. I walked up to the man and said, "How's fishing?" He didn't say much, but as I stood there, he finally gave in and pointed to a sack nearby. Mary checked the sack out. Good grief, it held eight trout, one 19-inches, two 18s, three 17s and two 16s. I said, "Mary, get the rods!" she came back from the car with a crest fallen look saying, "We left the bait back at Webber!"

WHAT TO DO? I finally asked the man if he had any extra night crawlers. They were using a whole night crawler on a number six hook. He finally answered, "I can spare you three." We were baited up in a minute or so. About an hour went by and Mary got a strike. She set the hook and later — much later — she landed a 19½-inch rainbow. The fish had a 13-inch girth. What a beauty. That was it, but we didn't care; we really had a prize.

After that we introduced ourselves to our benefactors who were Bob and Carol Krehbiel of King City. We made plans to meet them at the lake again the next day which we did. In fact, we were so excited that we got the fever and were up at 5 a.m. the next morning. Of course the man — who's no fool — made me promise to keep the name of the lake a secret. In order to get the three worms, I had to give him my word. What would you have done?

WELL, THE NEXT day, Mary and I had 10 of those whoppers on but landed just four. Most of the fish broke our two-pound test leaders, so we went to four pound test finally. The following day we took my daughter up there and she managed to land one. Meeting the Krehbiels and catching those fish certainly gave us an uplift for the vacation. With the weather finally cooling, all of the lakes will start producing trophy trout.

Of course, wouldn't you know it — we have to come home this week. No bucks, but what fish!



MIKE MOROSKI
A stunning record of leadership in his young career
(Sketch by Jack Lucey)

PREP OF WEEK MOROSKI

Innocent-Looking, But Deadly Gridder

By DAVID EINSTEIN

He has a boyish, innocent grin, red-tinged cheeks and hair almost towhead blond. But when he dons his gold Novato helmet, Mike Moroski looks more like a seasoned professional than a high school player.

Last Saturday night the 6-foot-3 senior quarterback vivisected the San Rafael secondary, completing 17 of 25 pass attempts in a 20-7 victory that kept Novato atop the Marin County Athletic League.

Not surprisingly, Mike Moroski was thus named the Independent-Journal's Prep of the Week.

Throughout his young career, first in Pop Warner, then on the Novato junior varsity, and now in his second year on varsity, Moroski has compiled a stunning record of leadership. As a quarterback, he has presided over only one loss — 7-6 to Petaluma last November in the Top of the Bay Bowl.

With Moroski at the helm, the Hornets have won 10 straight MCAL games, and they seem headed for a second straight title. They could all but wrap it up with a victory next Saturday over cross-town rival San Marin.

The position of quarterback at Novato is something of an inheritance for Mike. His brother, Marty, played there for three years and won all-MCAL honors in 1971. But Mike has earned the position on his own, make no mistake about it.

"He certainly is an outstanding boy to work with," says Novato coach Al Scott. "And he's always thinking. If the primary receiver is covered, he's sharp enough to pick out the secondary receiver."

"When Scott learned that Moroski had been selected Prep of the Week, he let go a typical ear-to-ear smile and said, "Good Choice."

He has all the tools — size, intelligence and a strong and accurate arm. So accurate, in fact, that he has been intercepted only three times in two years. The last one came against Tamalpais three weeks ago, and Moroski himself made the tackle on the thief.

But he broke his nose in the process, and missed the next game.

So far in league play this year, Moroski has thrown 54 passes, completing 32 for 367 yards and four touchdowns. Against San Rafael he reached near perfection, hitting for 167 yards and two scores.

"We knew once we tied them (at 7-7) that we could move the ball on them, and they couldn't stop us," he says. "They were giving us the middle on runs, and short stuff across the middle in the air."

Although most of the offensive plays are called by coach Marlin Olson, Moroski has the option of changing them.

"After practice he stays out and throws to the ends. They do that just about every afternoon," says Scott. Moroski and backup quarterback Scott DeRecat work with Steve Hoog, Mike Leach and Mark McAlonan.

"Early in the week we find out what kind of defense the other team plays and we go out and see what's going to be open. Then we modify our patterns accordingly," says Moroski.

The Novato offensive line deserves a lot of credit for protecting Moroski and giving him time to throw. He has been sacked only once this year thanks to the blocking of center Guy Armstrong, guards Dave Newirth and Rob Douglass and tackles Greg Podshadley and Mark Nicolini.

Moroski also letters in basketball and baseball (at pitcher and first base), and he professes to have no favorite sport. "I kind of like them as the seasons go," he says.

He would like to continue in sport as far as his talent will take him, beginning with a college career at Cal or Stanford or Oregon. Marty is at Stanford now, and playing basketball.

Mike and Marty have three sisters: Jan, a graduate of Oregon, Kay, a sophomore at University of California at San Diego and Mary, a ninth grader at Hill Junior High in Novato.

Their father incidentally, is Henry Moroski, principal at San Marin High. He probably hopes Mike throws for 300 yards next Saturday, but San Marin wins by a point.

WEEKEND BAD FOR REGGIE

BAKERSFIELD (UPI) — World Series star Reggie Jackson of the world champion Oakland A's struck out twice in Kern County during the weekend.

Jackson was stopped for speeding on Interstate 5 twice within 20 minutes Saturday night by the California Highway Patrol.

He apparently became somewhat miffed when the second ticket was issued to him and asked patrolman Phil McCone why he was stopped twice in such a short distance.

McCone replied, "I guess it's because you're now in Los Angeles Dodgers territory."

Compulsory Meet In Gymnastics

Preliminary competition is scheduled for today and tomorrow in the Marin County Junior High-Intermediate Compulsory girls' gymnastic meet.

Some 100 girls from Kent Junior High, Reedland Woods, Davidson Middle School and Mill Valley Middle School were to take part in a meet today at Tamalpais High. An equal number of entrants from White Hill, Vallecito, Santa Venetia Middle School and Miller Creek Junior High will compete tomorrow at Miller Creek. Both meets begin at 4 p.m.

There will be competition in uneven parallel bars, vault, balance beam and floor exercises. The top five finishes in each event at each preliminary, plus the top 50 per cent in all-around scoring will advance to a sectional meet Nov. 7 at Miller Creek. Qualifiers from there will go to the Bay Counties Junior High-Intermediate Compulsory gymnastic meet at Terman High in Palo Alto.

Rosston said Sportservice has been concessionaire at Golden Gate Fields for more than 20 years and has been approved by the board every year until 1973.

In 1973, he said, the board refused to qualify Sportservice after the Emprise conviction and that Hillside, a subsidiary of BASE, was the concessionaire in both 1973 and 1974, just as it will be in 1975.

India Won't Play Match

Combined AP & UPI

NEW DELHI — India definitely will not play South Africa in the Davis Cup final, R. K. Khanna, secretary of the All India Lawn Tennis Association, said today.

Khanna said the decision had been taken in line with the Indian government's avowed policy to boycott South Africa in all areas because of its apartheid policies.

India's decision was transmitted today to the South African Tennis Federation president and to Basil Reay, secretary of the Davis Cup Nations Committee. India's refusal to play means that South Africa will take the coveted Davis Cup by default.

Never before in the 74-year-old history of the Davis Cup competition has a nation been awarded the cup without playing in the final, Khanna said.

Player Meets With Students

Amiable Discussion Regarding Race Issue

PERTH, Australia (UPI) — West Australian student leaders today held talks with South African golfer Gary Player and told him they would not carry out any boisterous anti-apartheid demonstrations in Player's bid for his seventh Australian Golf Championship at the suburban Lake Karrinyup course Thursday.

Last weekend in Sydney, 16 aborigines and four white demonstrators wrestled with police and irate spectators when they catcalled and screamed at Player in the final two rounds of the Wills Masters tournament at the Australian Golf Club.

Police punched several of the demonstrators and one official threw a girl into a lake when she screamed "go home racist pig" as Player was in the middle of his backswing.

Player and several international golfers said it was the worst demonstration they had seen on a golf course. Today Player said he had no chance of winning the Wills Classic.

"But I know in my own heart if they had not yelled and screamed at me I would have won that tournament," Player said.

Today's meeting with student leaders followed a telephone call to the security manager of the Perth hotel where Player is staying. After talks with Player the security officer invited three of the students to meet the South African champion.

Player met with the student leaders before a practice round at the rain-drenched Karrinyup course. He said after the 62-minute meeting he had an amiable discussion with the students.

"I told them I didn't care if they did demonstrate against me — they were not going to change my point of view. "I love my country very much, it is the best country in the world. I told them I am a sportsman and not a politician and that I am against apartheid in sport. There are tremendous changes taking place in South African sport."

Player said he would do everything possible to be constructive for the advancement of black golfers.

"We have some good things back home and we have some bad things and we are working hard on those faults," Player said.

The students presented the following petition to Player:

"On behalf of students at tertiary institutions in Western Australia affiliated with the Australian Union of Students, we wish to protest to you over your collusion in the South African government's policy of apartheid. We believe that any white sportsman who represents South Africa in International sporting events must realize that they are inherently supporting a system of racial discrimination and racial separatism.

"Until such time as the South African government realizes that it cannot continue with its unfair and inhumane policy of racial separatism, we believe that white South African sportsmen must expect protests whenever they are participating in an international sporting event."

Player took the petition, read it and then talked to the student leaders.

One student said he understood that Player had done quite a lot for the advancement of black golfers and said Player had told him of his deep desire to continue to help them.

"We realize Player is against apartheid in sport but we asked him to use his "ambassadorship" around the world to tell the South African government how strongly we feel against racial separatism," he said.

Despite the truce talks to day West Australian police are not relaxing their heavy guard on Player. He is followed by a wedge of plainclothesmen, security in the Parmelia Hotel is tough and sponsors for the Australian Open said tonight while they respected the outcome of the meeting, the course and Player would be well protected at tee-off time Thursday for the $35,000 Qantas Australian Open.

Oakland Linebacker Johnson Is Casualty

OAKLAND (UPI) — Linebacker Monte Johnson was the only casualty in last Sunday's Oakland Raider 35-24 win over San Francisco, but three other injured Raiders also have the coaching staff worried.

Johnson was taken to a local hospital for observation after being knocked unconscious but is reported in good condition and probably will play Sunday at Denver, where a victory by the Raiders would just about sew up the American Football Conference Western division title for them.

But safety Jack Tatum and running back Clarence Davis are battling knee problems which kept them out of the 49er tussle.

And wide receiver Mike Siani, who pulled a hamstring in exhibition action, reinjured himself just before the 49er game.

"Mike was fine Saturday at practice," says Coach John Madden, "then the leg started to swell when he was driving home. It got bigger and bigger. They may have to open it up to see what's wrong."

Barry Vs. McAdoo In Scoring

OAKLAND (UPI) — The two top scorers of the young National Basketball Association season go at it tonight when Rick Barry (32.8) of the Golden State Warriors shoots it out with Bob McAdoo (30.2) of Buffalo.

The Warriors, now 3-2, have seen four games this season settled in the last 30 seconds of play with Golden State prevailing in three of those thrillers.

"I'd like to win one by 10 points, not one point every game," says center Cliff Ray. "But what we're in business for is winning, so by one point or 10, that's what matters."

Ray had to handle Bill Walton of Portland and Bob Lanier of Detroit in his last two games and gets McAdoo tonight.

"I have to concentrate on McAdoo all the time," says Ray, who at 6-9 is an inch shorter than the Buffalo high scorer.

Grabs Pacific-8 Scoring Lead

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Anthony Davis of USC scored twice against Oregon State Saturday to take over the Pacific-8 scoring leading in the only major switch in latest Pac-8 individual grid statistics.

The USC tailback has registered eight TDs and 48 points while Chuck Muncie of California, held scoreless last Saturday, has 42 points. Davis has scored 42 touchdowns in his career for an all-time Pacific Coast Conference record but his 252 points are still 25 behind Duke Morrison's 277 achieved for California from 1920-22.

Davis still leads the rushing figures with 727 yards in six games for a 121.0 per game average and a 4.9 per cent carry mark. Muncie is second in that department, too, but at 91.9 yards per carry.

Mill Valley Rental Firm Goes Into Much Larger New Quarters

A To Z Rental in Mill Valley moved this week into its brand new building at 145 Lomita Drive, behind Red Cart market.

Owners George and Norma Franks, who established A To Z Rental on Miller Avenue in 1967, have more than doubled the space in their new building. The former location, at 433 Miller Avenue, will be taken over by Mill Valley Motors, but more about this later.

The new A To Z Rental on Lomita Drive will expand its inventory with a bigger selection of equipment including skis, party goods, contractor's equipment, truck rentals, movie equipment, and sound projectors. "We have everything that the homeowner or contractor might need," said Franks.

The new building has 6,800 square feet under roof, compared with 3,200 square feet in the old location, and one and one-third acre of ground for parking and storage. It is located in the same shopping area where Sutter Hill Ltd. of Palo Alto plans a new Alpha Beta market and a Thrifty Drug Center.

Helping Mr. and Mrs. Franks at A To Z Rental are their sons, Eric and Dennis. Manager is Michael J. Mirko of San Rafael, who joined the firm after 42 years with Southern Pacific.

MILL VALLEY MOTORS auto repair and towing service will move this week into new quarters at 433 Miller Avenue (former A To Z Rental), across the street from Jack In The Box.

Mill Valley Motors, operated by Bill Johnson and Sons of Mill Valley, has been in business at 16 Madrona for 10 years. It provides auto repair and Triple A towing service for the Mill Valley area.

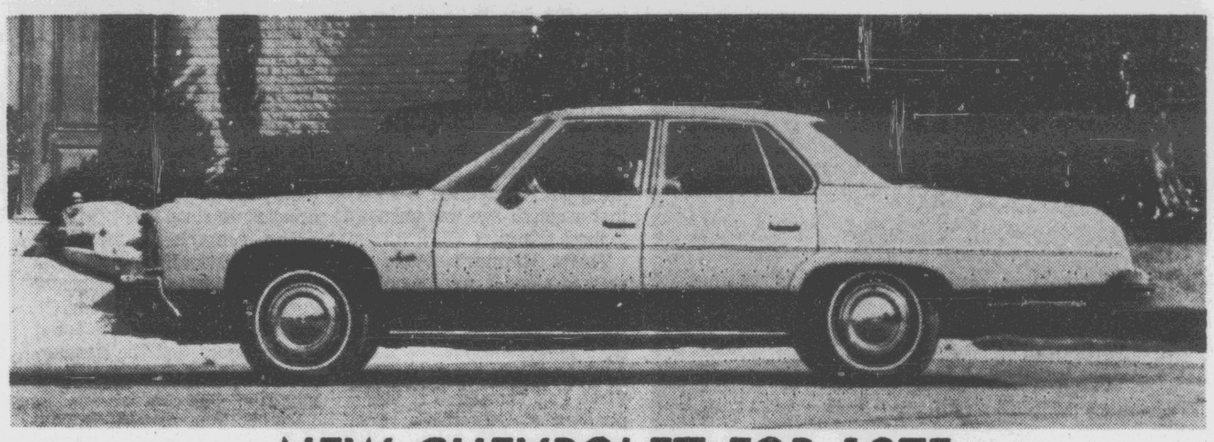
Mill Valley Motors' new location on Miller Avenue will also be the home of a new art supply shop to be called Mill Valley Art Supply, which will be operated by Johnson's wife, Virginia. Mrs. Johnson, whose hobby is painting, will open her art supply store in front of Mill Valley Motors in two or three weeks.

MAINTENANCE AND REPAIR of homes, and a home-inspection service to check on the overall condition of houses are provided by two new firms just established in San Rafael by Ben Smith of 8 Ashwood Court, San Rafael.

Smith, who has been operating Smith Exterminator Co. in San Rafael since 1969, expanded his business by forming Ben Smith Maintenance & Repair and Imperial Home Inspection Service. His new companies provide small repair jobs around the home and inspection service to check on everything from the roof to the foundation.

"A person buying a house might want a complete check of everything including the roof, wall sockets, appliances and lighting," said Shirley Smith, who manages the office for her husband.

GENESIS GALLERY, located at 2 Miller Avenue in Mill Valley on the second floor above the Casual Corner dress shop, will relocate to 158 East Blithedale Avenue, next to Kramar Real Estate Co.



NEW CHEVROLET FOR 1975

The standard Chevrolet offers a new level of luxury for 1975 and presents a different look in front that gives separate identity to the Impala. Styling changes include two new roof lines for four-door and sport sedan. The regular-size Chevrolets and station wagons are available in 15 models, in three series — Caprice Classic, Impala and Bel Air. Marin dealers are De Long in San Rafael, Campbell-Bishop in Corte Madera, Cheda in Point Reyes Station, and Empire in Novato.

Genesis will reopen Nov. 10 at the new East Blithedale location under a new name, Mill Valley Arts Guild, with paintings for rent or sale and crafts and sculpture for sale only. The new Mill Valley Arts Guild gallery will feature the works of Kentfield artists Joyce Livingston, Barbara Pierce, and Phyllis Taplitz from Nov. 10 through Dec. 10.

Genesis Gallery, established in July of 1971, is headed by president Garnet Featherstone of Lucas Valley. Office manager is Barbara Melichar of Mill Valley. "The reason we're moving to East Blithedale is that this building (2 Miller Avenue) has been sold," said Mrs. Melichar.

THE CASUAL CORNER dress shop, on the ground floor of 2 Miller Avenue, will also be moving out, but no other information was available. Pearl Harris, manager of the Casual Corner, said she does not know the moving date, or whether a new site has been selected.

ARI ASSOCIATES, a corporation which plans to distribute a new type of crescent wrench and other new devices, has been formed in Fairfax.

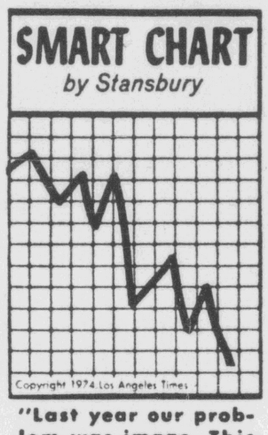
Principals are Jon Arild of Fairfax, a telephone company supervisor for 14 years; his brother Tor Arild, a Woodside manufacturer; and Kenneth S. Carey of Redwood City. The corporation's mailing address is Post Office Box 75, Fairfax.

"We're negotiating with an inventor in Norway on the Echa Spanner, a crescent wrench with a new method of moving the jaws," said Jon Arild. He hopes to start assembling the Spanner somewhere in Marin about January of next year.

Another product which Ari Associates hopes to distribute is a new type of emergency flasher for boats and private airplanes with a visibility range of about 15 miles.

JEFF STERLEY has joined the residential sales staff office of Frank Howard Allen & Co. Realtors in Novato. He is a graduate of San Rafael High School and the University of California in Santa Barbara.

LADY ROCHESTER INC., a new corporation headed by Robert L. Sockolov of San Rafael, has been formed to sell women's apparel, shoes and accessories. Sockolov also heads Rochester Big & Tall Clothing store in San Francisco.



"Last year our problem was image. This year it's liquidity."

Frank Hanses New Realty Board Chief

Frank Hanses of Novato has been elected 1975 persident of the Marin County Board of Realtors, succeeding Bruce Wrisley of Mill Valley.

Other officers elected are Wayne Womack, vice president; Gladys Mekisich, secretary, and Joseph Asiano, treasurer. Elected to the board of directors are Sue Schaefer, Robert Bergis, Harold Graves Jr., and Louis Giovine.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Putnam Investors Has Good Record

By ROGER E. SPEAR and DAVID R. SARGENT

Q. I am concerned about the poor performance of Putnam Investors bought 12 years ago at $7.70 per share. Should I sell this fund? — B.K.

A. Far from being a poor performer, Putnam Investors has outpaced the various market averages, as well as a mutual fund average, by a significant margin. Even over the last 21 months, the fund has dropped less sharply than the broad-based Standard & Poor's 500-Stock Index. If you accepted your distributions in cash for the 12-year period, you would have received $6.22 in capital gains and $1.88 in income dividends for each share of Putnam which you held. If you chose to reinvest distributions, you now hold a greater number of shares than you purchased originally.

Fund management has a top reputation within the investment community for its skill. Long an advocate of investing in leading growth companies, Putnam Investors has recently ventured into a few basic industry and natural resource issues. Like other funds in the Putnam group, Investors has a flexible policy in shifting its cash reserve position. As of the end of June, the fund was 15 per cent in cash and equivalents. In view of the fund's high-quality portfolio, recovery could be rapid. Hold.

Q. Do you think there is any hope that the back interest will be paid on the Chesapeake Bay Bridge & Tunnel 5.75 per cent C bonds due in 2000? — E.H.

A. Apparently the market thinks so. The recently proposed toll increase, which would add about $800,000 annually to revenues, produced a flurry in the bonds. The price of the issue moved up $20 to $340 bid after the announcement. In the 12 months through August, revenues were $1.9 million below interest expenses, an improvement over the previous year when they were $2.8 million shy. Although with the added revenue, interest expenses will still not be covered, the margin would be narrowed considerably. Since January, 1970, when default began, two interest installments have been met. Another payment seems probable.

Active Trade Sends Stock Mart Higher

NEW YORK (UPI) — Despite some adverse economic news, investors pushed prices sharply and broadly higher today in fairly active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Some analysts said investors may have been encouraged by progress in coal industry negotiations which now are concentrated on economic matters. Another optimistic note was the fact interest rates continued to decline.

Chemicals, oils, oil-related issues and glamors paced the rally. Eastman Kodak climbed 1 ¾, Dow Chemical 1 ⅝, Dupont 1 ⅛ and Allied Chemical 1.

Getty Oil rose 2, Schlumberger 2 ⅛, and Phillips Petroleum, Halliburton, Ohio Standard, Superior Oil, Kerr-McGee, McDermott and Indiana Standard a point or more each.

There were reports Saudi Arabia would unilaterally lower oil prices soon, but a high Saudi official denied the reports.

Procter & Gamble rose 2 ½. Point-sized gainers among the glamors included Xerox, Walt Disney, ARA Services, Johnson & Johnson, Bausch & Lomb, Merck, Upjohn and Bristol Myers.

Armstrong Cork was the most active issue, up ¼ to 15 ⅝ on 112,800 shares, including a block of 112,000 shares at 15 ½.

Department stores were higher. Sears, Roebuck rose 2 ⅛ and Federated Department Stores 1.

Prices also were higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Michigan Sugar was the most active Amex issue, off 1 ¾ to 14 ¾ on 61,100 shares.

IT'S GREAT — UNTIL THE HILL

What does a grandmother of twin boys do to get around when she doesn't drive a car? Mrs. Thelma Bureman of the Saint Louis suburb of Florissant, Mo., has found one answer. She puts Jerome Bureman (left) in one shopping cart and brother Jeffrey in the other. She gets between the carts, pushes one and pulls the other. It works great until she comes to a hill, she relates.

Controversy Aids Unknown Foes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The controversial appointment of John Harmer to lieutenant governor, the post for which he's seeking election, has helped bring public attention to a race that a month ago was unknown to most voters.

That's Harmer's view, expressed after a mild, hour-long debate with his rival for the seat, Democrat Mervyn Dymally.

"Before the appointment, a Field Poll showed that only 7 per cent of California's voting public even knew the name of either candidate," Harmer told The Associated Press.

"The appointment has been good for the race because we both have a greater degree of visibility now. In fact, Sen. Dymally held his first news conference the day I was named lieutenant governor."

Gov. Reagan named Harmer, a conservative Republican from Glendale, to fill the unexpired term of Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, who resigned Oct. 2 following his conviction on perjury charges connected to the Senate's ITT investigation.

Tha appointment was viewed by some as a political move to boost Harmer's campaign. Harmer has trailed Dymally, a state senator from Compton, in polls since the June primary.

"The appointment has done a lot for both of us," said Harmer. "I make announcements as lieutenant governor and that forces the press to go to Dymally for fair comment.

"If this situation had remained the same way it was a month ago, with both of us still in our original positions, I think more than half of the electorate would have gone to the polls totally ignorant of who we were or what we stood for."

The remarks came after Harmer, Dymally and the two other candidates for lieutenant governor debated yesterday.

Each spoke six minutes and it was apparent that the Harmer-Dymally feud was the most important concern.

Rather than discuss specific problems, each continued to attack the other's voting record.

Dymally said Harmer, a former state senator, voted against bills supporting social programs; Harmer replied that his "no" votes on those bills were based not on his opposition to the concepts behind the bills but on small sections which would have produced excess spending.

Also on the panel were Alberta Procell f the American Independent Party and Marilyn Seals of the Peace and Freedom party.

Mrs. Procell discussed how the AIP was formed and said her main concern was abortion. "I support the right to life," she said. "I support a reinstatement of anti-abortion laws. This is not a political issue. It's a moral issue."

Mrs. Seals joked with the other three candidates in the only touch of humor. She had said she originally did not want to run for statewide office because she didn't feel she could do the job but later changed her mind because she felt the voters needed another choice.

"With all due respect to Helen Reddy, I can do anything," she said.

Expo Begins Final Week

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — The Expo '74 world's fair has begun its final week of operation with fair officials confident the exposition will break even or possibly turn a profit.

Total attendance through Sunday for the fair was listed at 4,976,424, or about 23,500 short of the five million mark.

The five-million total attendance mark has long been figured as the indicator of financial success for the fair. It is at that point that Expo officials figure the fair will break even.

Coinciding with the final week of the fair is "76 Week," which is designed to provide Spokane residents with an opportunity to provide input into charting the city's post-Expo future through a variety of public meetings and conferences.

Cloud Seeding Must Obtain A Report First

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An environmental impact report must be filed before clouds can be seeded to increase rainfall, the attorney general's office ruled.

Norman Flette, deputy attorney general, said yesterday the ruling was made in response to complaints from persons who don't want additional rain.

David K. Gill, manager of advance planning for the Santa Clara Valley Water District, said in San Jose the ruling would wipe out his district's seeding plans for this winter.

"The report would cost us as much as $30,000 and that's what it cost us for a whole year of cloud seeding," he remarked.

Accused Woman Arsonist Dies

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (UPI) — A 22-year-old woman accused of setting a Sept. 9 nursing home fire that killed seven persons was found hanged early today in her jail cell.

Buchanan County Sheriff Jack Fleck said Debbie Withrow hanged herself with a headband borrowed from another woman inmate. Her body was found by an inmate who alerted officials through the jail intercom system.

Miss Withrow was charged Sept. 18 with first degree murder in the flash fire at the Shildknecht Nursing Home. Six women patients and the son of the owners died in the early morning fire. Miss Withrow was an aide at the home.

Meeting Cancelled

The Dixie School District Board has cancelled its regularly scheduled Nov. 13 meeting, and will meet at 8 p.m. Nov. 6 instead, a spokesman said today.

Protestors Briefly Seize Cambodian U.N. Offices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ten Americans today seized three rooms of the Cambodian Mission to the United Nations and evicted the attache and a secretary before being removed by police.

The protesters, six men and four women in their early 20s, left the offices under police escort with their right arms raised in a clenched fist in the traditional revolutionary salute.

Police said neither the attache, Oum Sun Thonn, nor the secretary, Bernadette Blanchais, was harmed. They said the protesters would be charged with criminal trespass.

The group, demanding the return to power of former Cambodian leader Prince Norodom Sihanouk, staged the takeover of the 20th floor offices of the Khmer Republic (Cambodia) mission on Third Avenue at 51st Street at 8:45 a.m.

The demonstrators were escorted from the mission at 10:50 a.m. when police forced an office door.

Japanese Seek War Stragglers

BANGKOK (UPI) — Three World War II Japanese veterans have started a search of northern Thailand for Japanese stragglers possibly still hiding in the area despite the end of World War II.

The team of veterans arrived last week and flew to the northern part of the country during the weekend.

Japanese sources said the men are trying to locate the stragglers for their families.
